Delays Action on New Neutrality Bill

SENATE GROUP BACKS BORAH'S PLEA FOR TIME

Legislation to Lift Embargo, Check Roosevelt's Powers Sent to Committee.

ACTION DUE THURSDAY

Senate Conferees to Take Up Measure Then; Open Debate to Follow Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate foreign relations committee delayed action until Thursday today on the administrations new neutrality legislation.

The delay was agreed to at the request of Senator Borah (R-Inda) ranking minority committeeman and opponent of President Roosevelt's proposal to repeal the existing arms embargo.

A draft of the administration measure, written over the week-end by committee Democrats, was submitted by Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) when the group met this morning.

Borah said opposition forces had no disposition to lock the bill up in committee, but added:

"I have always had a prejudice against voting on a bill before I have read it."

The new bill carries out President Roosevelt's recommendation for repeal of the arms embargo but provides powerful congressional checks on executive discretion.

A group of committee Democrats, meeting in closed session for more than five hours yesterday, decided to include two provisions to curtail presidential authority.

Committmen said they were designed to win support from opposition senators, some of whom have declared a "hell to breakfast" fight against removal of the embargo.

The first provision, it was learned, would permit congress to invoke the neutrality law by a majority vote of both houses. The existing neutrality statue can be invoked only by the president.

The second would require the munitions control board to advise congress every six months as to the amount of war materials purchased by belligerents, the amount of credit extended by American companies, and the total credits received by individual foreign governments and companies. The board now reports annually.

The new bill was said authoritatively to be acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt.

There were general predictions that the senate debate on the neutrality issue, which centers on the arms embargo, would not get underway before next week.

Boom! There She Goes!

Blasting For Water In Park Fails, Maple Lake's Still Dry

The city board of park commissioners, the Mansfield Public Parks association and the South Park-Maple lake association are going to get a lake out at South park again—that is if they can find some water.

The three-acre basin was a first class lake and beauty spot years ago. Neglected it turned to swamp land and finally dried up.

Recently WPA workers cleaned out the old swamp and hauled away more than 5,000 cubic yards of dirt. Today the bed of the proposed lake looks like a battlefield full of shell holes.

The reason is that association members under the direction of Roy W. Vaughn, park commissioner, blasted 15 holes Saturday in an effort to locate a water source.

It was said that the former lake was fed by several large springs that found an underground course when the land became grown over.

What the association members were trying to do was to blast holes that would allow water to again find its way to the surface and fill the lake bed.

Today the holes were still there but little water. They now plan to dig out the holes and drill deeper in order to locate the lost springs.

HEAR NAVAL BATTLE OFF NORWAY COAST

Island Residents Say Noise of Firing Shakes Houses, Draws Closer.

TRAWLERS FLEEING SCENE

Hazy Weather Prevents Shore Observers From Sighting Participating Ships.

(By Associated Press)

BERGEN, Norway — Inhabitants of Algroi Island reported this afternoon that unidentified ships had been engaged in heavy cannonading off the coast of Norway since 6 a. m. (Midnight EST), leading them to express the belief a naval battle was underway.

The battle—If such it was—apparently was moving closer to the coast, they said. Concussion of large calibre guns shook houses on the island.

(Canonading last week in the Kattegattt, a strait between Denmark and Sweden, later proved to be target practice by Swedish batteries.)

Firing stopped temporarily at about 1:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m. EST), but resumed about half an hour later, the island's inhabitants said.

OSLO, Norway —(AP)— Violent cannonading far out in the Atlantic was reported from several points along the Norwegian coast today, leading observers to believe a naval battle was raging.

Reports from the coastal communities said the bark of big guns could be heard between 8 and 9:30 a. m. (2 and 3:30 a. m. EST).

Hazy weather made it impossible to see any warships, but several German trawlers were observed steaming toward the coast as if fleeing from a battle zone.

The Aftenposten's correspondent at Bergen said the "battle" started last night and continued early today.

Inhabitants of a small island south of Bergen said several ships of undetermined nationality were steaming northward at full speed last night amid a constant exchange of gunfire.

Fugitive Polish Sub Reaches Safety in Sweden.

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — A lone warrior against German naval power, her crew half starved and exhausted after 24 days at sea, the 980-ton Polish submarine Zbik limped into Stockholm harbor today, ending a picturesque saga of the world war.

Attacked with dept charges but not seriously damaged and a survivor of several encounters against German warships, the battered and barnacled submarine was taken over by Swedes and her crew of 54 interned.

The Zbik was the third Polish U-boat to take refuge in Swedish territorial waters. Two others were interned at Waxholm last week.

This picture was taken 21 years ago. It shows American soldiers parading in New York City upon their return from France.

Some of the men in the photo may be among the 250,000 persons expected at the American Legion's 21st annual convention which opened in Chicago today.

If they are at the convention, they'll do a lot of talking about neutrality and rearmament—because the new European war has put those items at the top of the program. Legion headquarters won't say what the official attitude on another war is, but National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick favors strict neutrality.

There are 1,026,084 members of the Legion. Headquarters says the average legionnaire is 47, has two children, a yearly income of $2,545.26. Ninety-two per cent of the legionnaires own radios, 80 per cent own cars, 54 per cent own homes, and 36 per cent own businesses.

EMPIRE PLANT NEAR CAPACITY

Operating Rate Still Soaring, Reaches 85 Per Cent, High Mark for Last 2 Years.

Steel operations which have been swinging rapidly upward since the outbreak of the European war were at 85 per cent of capacity today at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, the highest in two years.

James M. Hill, president of the company, said that the capacity rating had moved up approximately 30 per cent in the past 60 days and predicted even greater production levels during the balance of the year.

He said the plant is booked to near capacity for the next three months and has not yet accepted orders for 1940.

Hill's statement was in line with reports in the magazine "Steel" which said today that some steel producers were sold out for the balance of 1939 and as a result were reconditioning old facilities and discussing new ones.

Empire is now installing two anealing furnaces at a cost of $53,000. A processing improvement, the equipment is expected to be put into operation by the middle of November.

Most of the demand for steel which has sent production up has come from domestic sources, "Steel" says. The export market has stiffened, but belligerent nations have not forwarded any important orders.

HUNTER SHOT AS SEASON OPENS

Cleveland Man Wounded Near New London Early Today.

One casualty marked the opening of the squirrel hunting season in this vicinity today.

William Howard, 50, colored, of Cleveland, was reported wounded in the back when he was accidentally shot by Walter Testor of Clarksfield while hunting, early today near Clarksfield, north of New London. Howard was taken to the New London hospital.

The season, on gray and fox squirrel, will continue until Oct. 10.

Hollywood Mourns Laemmle, 'Grand Old Man' of Films

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Hollywood today mourned Carl Laemmle, sr., its grand old man, without whose early-day court battles against monopoly there might never have been a movie industry as it is now.

"Uncle Carl" was 72 when he succumbed yesterday to a heat attack in his 25-room Spanish hacienda.

Two physicians were powerless to help him. Carl, jr., his only son, and Mrs. Stanley Bergerman, his daughter, were so shocked by his death that they left the funeral plans to others. Only the night before the white-haired Uncle Carl had gone automobile riding along the coast.

Three years ago he sold Universal City, which housed his movie company, to a group of New York bankers for $5,500,000 cash. He lived thereafter with his memories, his children and his grandchildren on his 32-acre estate.

When he came to America from Laupheim, Germany in 1893, he had $50 and the ambition to become a merchant prince.

3 MORE FLEE

Amrine Reports Escapes From Prison Farm, Honor Camp.

Three more London prison farm inmates had escaped today, two from the institution greenhouse and the third from the London honor camp, W. F. Amrine, acting superintendent, reported today.

Amrine, in charge of the farm while Supt. T. C. Jenkins, former Mansfielder is on a three-months leave of absence said two of the fugitives were David Branham, 46, Champaign county bank robber, sentenced in 1932 to serve 20 years to life, and William Miller, 41, Montgomery county, sentenced in 1937 to serve one to 15 years for breaking and entering. They escaped from the greenhouse.

Horace Thornton, Montgomery county robber who had served almost 10 years and who would have been eligible for parole in January, fled from the Lebanon honor camp.

Amrine also announced the return of Gail Chaney, 47, who escaped in July, 1928. He was captured in Highland county.

Allies Cripple Friedrichshafen Airplane Plant

Swiss Border Reports Indicate French Or British Bombers Raided Important Air Base Twice; 'Several' Direct Hits Scored On Factories.

(By Associated Press)

ROMANSHORN, Switzerland—One of Germany's main airplane motor factories was reported today to have been put out of action by bombs from French or British planes staging a raid on the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany, last night.

(The German high command, a dispatch from Berlin said, flatly denied that there had been any air raid on Friedrichshafen.)

The first alarm in the Friedrichshafen area—five miles across Lake Constance from here—started searchlights sweeping the skies at 8:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. EST) and a number of anti-aircraft batteries on the German side opened fire. Explosions of a few bombs could be heard here.

The main part of the raid apparently came when a second alarm was sounded at 11 p. m. Military observers on the Swiss side, judging by the dull roars heard here, estimated at least 30 bombs were dropped by the raiders despite heavy anti-aircraft fire, which included tracer bullets.

Reports reaching here said several direct hits on the factory were scored, but because the border was closed these could not be confirmed.

Swiss shore watchers said they saw the German anti-aircraft guns fire tracer bullets into the sky like powerful roman candles and that they heard terrific detonations as though from bursting bombs.

The German batteries were said to have kept up their fire for two hours while searchlights criss-crossed over Friedrichshafen.

Worked Day and Night.

The giant Zeppelin works, which turned out all of Germany's lighter-than-air dirigibles, had been converted into an airplane motor factory and working day and night. Special bombproof shelters had been built for the factory workers deep under the plant.

A ministry of information communique in London announced meanwhile new "reconnaisance" flights by British warplanes over western and northwestern Germany last night, but said only propaganda leaflets were dropped. The communique did not say specifically over what areas the British planes flew.

If British bombers participated in the reported night raid, history will have repeated itself for early in 1914 a British plane carried out one of the first World war air raids against the Friedrichshafen works.

French, Nazis Clash On 40-Mile Front

BASEL, Switzerland — (AP) — Thousands of French soldiers, backed by tanks and complete offensive equipment, clashed with German troops today in what dispatches said was heavy fighting along a 40-mile jagged line in the heart of the western front.

Reports reaching this frontier city said the engagement was the result of a series of French attacks from the Saar basin to the Vosges mountains.

It still was too early, however, to judge from reports whether the fighting was the beginning of a French offensive, or merely a concentrated effort to recapture positions which, it was said, German

French Artillery Begins Direct Bombardment of Siegfried Line

BULLETIN

PARIS—(AP)—French troops struck at German positions in the Haardt mountains today under cover of heavy fire by artillery which French dispatches said was bombarding main fortifications of Germany's Siegfried line.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Military dispatches from the western front reported today that French artillery had begun a direct bombardment of the main fortifications of the German Siegfried line.

Heavy French batteries, the dispatches said, were dropping large caliber shells on the west wall casements in an effort to blast German defenders from their positions in the heavily fortified zone.

German guns replied to the bombardment, it was said.

Most of the artillery action was reported centered south of the German town of Saarbruecken and along the Lauter river, where the Maginot and Siegfried lines are closest.

Dispatches said Sunday night was comparatively quiet along the entire front as the Germans failed to renew assaults they have been launching during the past few days.

Earlier, the French, taking advantage of the lull in German thrusts, it was said, assumed the initiative at several points to con-

GERMANY CLAIMS. . . . .

British Destroyer Sunk, 8 French Planes Shot Down on West Front

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Sinking of a British destroyer by a German submarine was announced in an official communique today as German military leaders were reported preparing for prolonged war on the western front.

The communique did not identify the destroyer and gave no details of the sinking, but declared maritime warfare was "yielding good results."

The same announcement said eight French war planes had been shot down during an airfight in the west, where, it added there had been "reconnoitering activity and artillery activity on both sides" at various undisclosed points.

Circles close to the high command pointed with pride to the reported destruction of another British war vessel. They said this feat, coupled with the sinking of the British aircraft carrier Courageous last week, had emphasized the effectiveness of Germany's underseas warfare.

(Loss of the Courageous was acknowledged officially Sept. 18 by British sources, which estimated today German submarines had sunk about 40 British merchant vessels to date.)

News of the sinking of the British destroyer came as informed quarters reported that German military leaders apparently were convinced the lightning conquest of Poland could not be used as a

Pitcher Calls On 'Twister Ball' Too Often, Breaks Arm

(By Associated Press)

MARION—Edward Huggins, 22-year-old southpaw pitcher, used his "twister" delivery once too often yesterday.

He was hurling for the Marion Independents in a game at Sycamore. At a crucial point in the fifth inning he wound up for his favorite pitch.

As he finished his delivery a sharp crack resounded through the park and the ball went into the bleachers. Huggins' arm fell limp at his side, broken just below the shoulder.

He won the game however, holding a 3-2 lead when the accident occurred, and there was no further scoring.

He received first aid surgical treatment at the ball park and later his arm was reset at a Marion hospital.

8 Hurt In Week-End Traffic Accidents In Vicinity

5 OF VICTIMS MANSFIELDERS, NONE SERIOUS

Cycle Skids on Gravel, Lands Rider in Hospital; 10 Lose Lives in Ohio.

Traffic mishaps injured eight persons over the week-end in the Mansfield area, including six in Richland county and one each in Huron and Holmes counties, while at least 10 persons died in Ohio mishaps, reports to authorities showed today.

Five of those hurt in this section were Mansfielders, but only one of them was believed injured seriously. Three of the eight who were injured were in hospitals today.

Thrown from his motorcycle late Saturday when it struck an embankment along route 30S eight miles west of Mansfield, John Heltz, 27, of 304 Newman street, is in General hospital suffering from internal injuries, fractures of two ribs and body lacerations.

His condition was reported as satisfactory today by hospital attendants. Heltz told state highway patrolmen that his motorcycle skidden in loose gravel at a curve and then struck the embankment, throwing him off.

Pedestrian Injured.

Also in General hospital was Jerome Lamphier, 73, of 259 Wayne street, who received a fractured leg when struck by a car driven by James E. Sawhill, 260 North Main street, at Wayne and Orange streets Saturday night.

John W. Brown, 25, colored, of Crestline, was fined $50 and lost his driving rights for 90 days in municipal court today after his car struck Robert Meister, 11, of R. D. 3, Mansfield, west of the city, slightly injuring the boy who was riding a bicycle. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $35 of the fine on the condition that Brown pay for the repair of the boy's bicycle.

Two Mansfield women received lacerations and bruises Sunday night when the car in which they were riding sideswiped another on route 39, three miles north of Mansfield. The injured were Mrs. Sylvia Mae Herring, 38, of 316½ West Fourth street, driver of one of the cars, and Mabel Young, Central avenue, her companion.

Mrs. Bert Steiner of Greenwich was treated at the Willard Municipal hospital for a fractured left arm and cuts and bruises she received Sunday night in an auto collision on route 224 near Greenwich.

Alonzo Mayze, 21, R. D. 6, Wooster, suffered lacerations and abrasions early Sunday when the car in which he was riding ran into a ditch along route 226 near Lakeville in Holmes county.

Struck by a car on North Mulberry street Saturday night, Nora Robertson, 6, Mansfield, was slightly injured. Dewey Gregg, 136 North Weldon avenue, driver of the car, said she ran into the street from behind a parked machine.

Four persons were killed in Cleveland, including two pedestrians. Arvin Owen, 21, of Northridge, was killed during a motorcycle speed trial at Dayton, and Henry Yost, 22, of Wellston, another cyclist, was killed at Athens.

Welcome To—

A daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Anton Miller, 266 East Fourth street, at General hospital Saturday morning.

Aristocratic dogdom of this vicinity was upped by six new members this past week when Regina, the German Boxer, owned by George Hawkins, secretary-manager for Louis Bromfield, gave birth to six puppies. The number in itself is most unusual as these doggy aristocrats usually have two and three pups. The pappy is Rex, who also belongs to Hawkins. Rex, who has a pedigree as long as from here to way over yonder, was born in Cologne, Germany, while 'Gina, a much smaller dog and with ancestors only a little less imposing, was born in London and was only a pup last fall when Hawkins brought them to America.

Border regulations between the United States and Canada have tightened up a bit since the dominion declared war, Atty. William F. They noticed that all power plants, bridges and stations are guarded, and the lower road at Niagara Falls, which passes around the big Canadian power plant is closed and guarded. There also is a new restriction on the amount of Canadian money that can be taken out of the country. An individual can't take out more than $100. Tourists, however, have no more trouble getting in and out Canadian ports of entry than they did before except that some evidence of citizenship is now required.

HIKES COUNTY BUDGET $6,000

Commission Allots $384,950 for 1940; Increase Due to Soldiers Relief Needs.

A budget calling for $384,950 for the operation of the Richland county government in 1940, about $6,000 more than the county had this year, had been approved today by the budget commission.

Unlike its subdivisions, the county did not have its operating requests slashed by the commission, because most of the county departments let Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, a member of the budget commission, set up their requests according to the funds available for the year.

Almost debt free, the county will need only $37,658 for bond retirement and interest charges in 1940. All county bonds will be retired by the end of next year, the auditor said. Debts and interest this year required $123,188.

The $6,000 increase in the operating budget is due to a larger request from the Soldiers' Relief commission, the auditor said. The commission asked for $28,690 for its 1940 program. That figure is $12,000 more than the relief commission received this year, but the county's operating requests were $6,000 less, reducing the net increase to $6,000.

The sharp drop in debt requirements permitted a three-tenths of a mill reduction in the county tax rate for debt purposes in 1940.

DEATH MARKS '30' ON LIFE OF WAR CORRESPONDENT GIBBONS

(By Associated Press)

STROUDSBURG, Pa.—Death has cancelled the last reportorial assignment of Floyd Gibbons, 52, globe-trotting war correspondent a quarter of a century.

In the midst of plans to go abroad to cover the European war, the noted newspaper, radio and movie reporter died last night after a heart attack at his farm home near here.

A swachbuckling figure, Gibbons personified to the public the romantic aspects of foreign news reporting.

This impression was heightened by a white cloth patch the ruddy-faced 200-pound, 6-foot correspondent wore over his left eye, shot out at Belleau wood during the World war when Gibbons leaped up to pull a wounded soldier, Major Ben Berry, to safety.

Gibbons, wounded also in the shoulder and elbow by machine gun fire, was awarded the croix de guerre and made a chevalier in the French legion of honor for this exploit.

Gibbons.

Among notable news beats scored by Gibbons during a reportorial career was an exclusive interview with Joseph Stalin and an account of the torpedoing in September, 1917, of the U. S. Laconia, on which he was a passenger.

Gibbons won his first recognition as a special correspondent for the Chicago Tribune. In later years, he roved the world for the Hearst newspapers and International News service.

FISHING BOATS AND PLEASURE CRAFT BATTERED

Terrific Storm Breaks Record Heat Wave; 24 Aboard Small Vessel Missing.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—Navy destroyers and coast guard cutters steamed to the aid of scores of battered pleasure and fishing boats early today as furious gales lashed the southern California coast and took a toll of at least seven lives.

Several craft and scores of persons were missing.

A 50-mile an hour gale which had stranded fishing and pleasure parties on a boiling sea late yesterday had just begun to diminish when a new storm formed 50 miles off shore and swept shoreward. Craft at sea were capsized and heavy combers pounded against beach resorts demolished cottages, piers and moored vessels.

Most serious casualty of the gale was the 50-foot fishing boat Spray. Of the 26 persons aboard it only two were accounted for. The other 24 or their bodies were expected to be found on a jetty reaching into the surf from Point Magu 75 miles north of here.

A week of record-breaking heat had sent thousands of southern Californians to the beaches and on fishing and pleasure cruises. Many craft were caught in the gales and were unable to make shore. Heavy rain squalls accompanied the winds.

Two men whose identities were not known were swept off the Long Beach breakwater by the giant combers. Coast guard cutters searched in vain more than an hour for their bodies. Another body was washed ashore at Newport, about 30 miles south of Los Angeles.

At Oxnard, approximately 75 miles north of Los Angeles, where the Spray was capsized and grounded the bodies of two men were swept up on the beach. Officers believed they might have been members of the Spray fishing party.

In Hollywood, fears were expressed for the safety of 25 employes of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio who were unreported aboard the fishing boat Falcon.

FOUND AT HOME

Missing Loan Firm Official Held to Ashland Jury.

ASHLAND—Ray S. Reinhardt, 35, manager of the Ashland branch of the Mansfield Provident Loan company, missing for nearly two weeks and wanted on charges of forgery and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, was arrested at his home here Sunday afternoon by city and county authorities.

At a hearing before Justice of Peace J. H. Armstrong, Reinhardt waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $2,000. Reinhardt supplied bond and was released.

Reinhardt is accused of forging a note for $650 to purchase an automobile and registering the automobile under the name of James V. Motter, according to Sheriff Dale Hammond. He is said to have used aliases of James V. Motter and J. E. Harrison, the sheriff said.

Shelby Men Plead Guilty to Illegal Advertising As Chiropractors.

Two Shelby men were fined $250 each and were given 90-day suspended jail sentences today by Judge C. H. Huston when they pleaded guilty in common pleas court to a charge of illegal advertising.

The defendants, H. C. Rinehart, 41 West Main street, and B. D. Lash, 23 North Gamble street, were cited in affidavits accusing them of advertising as chiropractors without a license to practice. The affidavits were signed by Frank A. Dorsey, state medical inspector.

Judge Huston also suspended $100 of each of the fines on the condition that Rinehart and Lash comply with the state code.

FAIR ENOUGH!

An Argument for Fewer Exemptions From Taxes On Income, Real Estate

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—If I were to say that the Communist party should be compelled to pay an income tax on its revenues, which appear to have exceeded a million dollars a year, and you were to say in that case churches and religious organizations and labor unions also should be compelled to pay, my answer would be, "why not?"

In fact, I would insist that real estate owned by whomsoever also should be taxed, except it be public property—as Central park, for instance—and public highways, navy yards and forts.

I would say that all private organizations whether political, religious or co-operative, except charities, should pay taxes on their income and properties.

* * *

As to the revenues of criminals, such as Tom Pendergast, I would write into the revenue act a provision that all illegal income shall be taxed 100 per cent.

At present, if a criminal reports his income, he pays no more tax than an honest man pays on a like amount, and the Internal Revenue gladly becomes his accessory after the fact for the sake of a few dirty dollars, with an implied invitation to the crook to go out and get some more the same way.

That is not only immoral but an injustice to the square guy.

* * *

The present revenue act and the state tax laws have encouraged the collection of vast amounts of money through dues, assessments, extortions, contributions and bequests, and the accumulation of great holdings of real estate which lean their weight all over the people who pay taxes on their homes or risk their savings in rental properties.

As to labor unions—with a few exceptions which only prove, rather than disprove, the rule—their income is held to be a matter of such delicacy that the government and even the union members have no right to ask questions. Well, why shouldn't the government ask questions, inasmuch as organized labor is now acknowledged to be as big as organized capital or industry, which has to show its books and pay taxes?

Our statesmen do not hesitate to ask questions about the collections and disbursements of organization of employers, with particular reference to the use of such money for political purposes, and I would apply the same requirements to unions and combinations of unions—most of which incidentally, also engage in politics.

* * *

If this money is honestly handled there should be no objection to a strict accounting and if it were taxed as income, on an even level, bracket for bracket, with every other dollar of income in the country that would be no imposition to anyone. It would be merely a belated fulfillment of the original purpose of the income tax amendment.

Nor do I admit that charities have a right to exemption, especially inasmuch as the government itself has now become the greatest charitable institution in the land and private, or non-government, organizations dump their overload onto the treasury, anyway. If the government is going to carry 90 per cent of the load, it might just as well carry it all, but my point here is that the exemption of charities is not a right but a special privilege.

In return for this privilege institutions which are bashful about their good deeds and mysterious about their finances should be compelled to show what they do with money acquired under a special license to beg. Obviously they should pay taxes on any part of it which is not applied to charitable purposes.

* * *

I have to confess to a personal skepticism regarding charities, having noticed that some institutions which are so regarded are not at all demure about their charges for appendectomies, anesthetics and beds, and others will turn a bum out into the snow if he comes up 3 cents shy of the price of a 15-cent flop.

I claim that any institution which enjoys an immunity from the tax on its income or its real estate is under an obligation to prove periodically to the public, and not merely to its own operators, that it deserves those exemptions.

Incidentally, Ben Gitlow, the backslid Bolo, told the Dies committee recently that a million-dollar American fund for relief of the Russian famine in 1922 was stolen by the Communists for political works, and while such diversion may not be typical, there is no assurance that it is rare. We just don't know, but we have a right to know.

And, finally, if a religious organization goes into politics, either directly or indirectly or through the activities of some individual cleric who pretends to be an independent operator, then there is a plain violation of the written word of the present revenue act.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

"THE RAINS CAME." Screenplay by Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson from the novel by Louis Bromfield. Directed by Clarence Brown. Cast: Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power, George Brent, Brenda Joyce, Nigel Bruce, Maria Ouspenskaya, Joseph Schildkraut, Mary Nash, Jane Darwell, Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers, H. B. Warner, Laura Hope Crews.

* * *

HOLLYWOOD—Louis Bromfield, who wrote the best-selling novel of this title, has expressed himself as pleased with the screen version. Author Bromfield should be pleased.

"The Rains Came" is as intelligent and satisfying a translation from printed page to celluloid as has come from Hollywood in many miles of footage. It is remarkable, incidentally, in its restraint: catastrophes of nature, necessary to the plot, are not permitted to overpower the human element in the story's unfolding.

To the Indian principality of Ranchipur, where an enlightened maharajah and his venerable maharani have selected Major Safti (Power) to rule after them, come Lord and Lady Esketh (Loy). His Lordship (Bruce) is a pompous boor, but his wife—ah, there's a one! She's disillusioned, mercenary, and freely romantic—first with never-do-well Tom Ransome (Brent), her old flame and a sentimental cynic. But that is before she meets Major Safti, the Johns Hopkins-educated Indian doctor of highest caste. After that meeting, being a woman without morals, Lady Esketh sets her net for him, but makes no catch.

The prayed-for rains have come by now, in torrents, and there is a major earthquake, almost too realistic in the new manner of screened catastrophes. The earthquake kills or injures thousands, cracks a huge dam which floods the valley. The flood brings plague, and the plague necessitates the burning of whole sections of the city.

Calamity and its aftermath of human suffering do their work in the unregenerate hearts of Lady Esketh and Tom Ransome. The latter forswears brandy, assists in the crisis, finally returns the love of Fern Simon (Joyce), unsophisticated missionary's daughter. In Lady Esketh regeneration follows the same course: menial service at Major Safti's hospital until she wins his heart. But here the Maharani and her plans are at stake. When Safti wishes to forsake his future, Lady Esketh forbids his sacrifice by refusing to fight against the plague which has claimed her.

The picture projects an interesting modern India against the traditional background of ancient mysticism. In Brown's direction, understatement and an even, inevitable pace are much in evidence. The performances are convincing. Power's evincing new ease and credibility, and Miss Loy and Brent projecting the spirit of their roles throughout. Miss Joyce, the Los Angeles co-ed here seen in her first role, is youthfully fresh and beautiful—and if her naivete is acting, she does it well. All but stealing the show, however—come rains, earthquake, fire, flood and plague and Tyrone Power—is Maria Ouspenskaya's bejewelled, iron-willed, cigaret-smoking Maharani.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, September 26.

AN UNCERTAIN day is forecast. There may be many swift-moving events, which may be subject to annoyance and frustration, judging by the lunar figures. With a proper degree of precaution and discretion where there might be pitfalls, plots and other manifestations of duplicity, things may not wind up disastrously. There is the prospect of the helpful intervention of a superior, one high in authority, or just a faithful friend.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a rather routine year, except for some swift-moving episode which may have such aspects of ruthlessness as to make the intervention of powerful friends, superiors or those in authority needful. This intervention may save matters from trickery, deceit or some form of sinister entanglement. With this aid and circumspect conduct, catastrophe may be averted.

A child born on this day may have a gentle, friendly, sympathetic and humane nature, which may make it an easy prey for schemers and tricksters. It may have artistic, poetic or musical inclinations and talents.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

I sped up the stairs to my father's suite after leaving the kitchen.

As I had hoped, Lillian was in the upper hall, seated by the window where I had left her. She rose as I came into view and hurried to meet me, her face an animated question mark.

"Please answer this question in the negative," I said, smiling at her. "Is it possible to speak to my father at this time?"

"I don't need any adjuration on that score," she retorted with her familiar gamin grin. "You couldn't break into that room with a can opener or a chisel. But what's up? Old Phil must be in rare good form."

"He is," I returned, "but I can't tell you about it now. However, he'll be on his way back to the hotel in another five minutes, and the second I see the last of him, I'll come back up here and 'tell you all.'"

"I am sorry," I told Mr. Veritzen as I came back into my little study, "that it is impossible to see my father now. But, as I told you before, I will let you know the instant I learn his decision about the rehearsals."

"Thank you so much," he said. I spoke again, insistently. "There is one stipulation I must make about this arrangement if my father approves it," I said.

His eyebrows raised ever so slightly.

"I am ready to hear it," he said, formally

"It is possible," I began, "that I may have to be absent for a day or two next week, and I cannot consent to any rehearsal for Mary unless I am present."

His eyebrows were not lifted now. Instead, they were drawn together in a portentous frown.

"I never have known you to do freakish things," he said, "but, frankly, I cannot understand this ultimatum of yours—I suppose I may call it that."

"I am sorry," I said, "but that is what I intended it to be."

"Why?" He flung the monosyllable at me.

"You put Mary in my charge," I told him, "and told me to train her. I have put everything that is in me into that task, and in justice to both Mary and myself I must be with her at every rehearsal. I cannot consent to any other arrangement."

"That is capable of two interpretations," he said, "Either you do not trust me, or you have a very exaggerated sense of oh!—there is no use talking about it. I yield, of course, to your—ultimatum."

"Thank you so much," I said sweetly.

"I will take my leave of you now," he announced with the flamboyant formality. "May I hope that you will let me hear from you as soon as you learn your father's decision about the rehearsals?"

"I shall telephone you immediately upon receiving it," I said, and then, to my great relief, he got himself out of the room and the house. As he left I sped back upstairs, reaching the top just as Harry Underwood came out of my father's room, the men my father had summoned trooping after him.

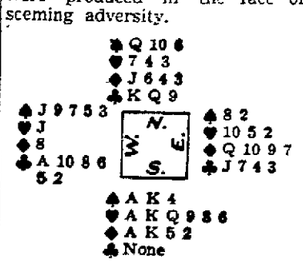
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOPE IS NEVER DEAD

THOUGH ALL apparent ways to make your contract have failed, hope never is dead if you are willing to keep trying, unless the defenders already have taken the setting trick. A study of the situation that remains after a series of bad breaks still may disclose another and more brilliant means of attaining the original goal. Some of the most startling plays ever seen at a bridge table were produced in the face of sceming adversity.



(Dealer. South. Neither side vulnerable.)

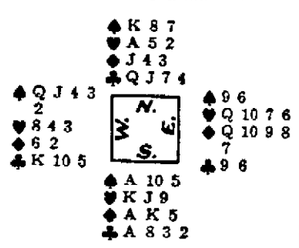
You can doubtless figure out a lot of ways to reach the correct 6-Hearts contract attained on this deal by Charles H. Goren, the Philadelphian who for the last season outranks all other national championship players in winning record.

When West led his heart J Mr. Goren, of course, tried two rounds of trumps, to drop the hostile ones and make the heart 7 an extra entry to dummy. When this failed, he tried two diamonds, expecting to find a division limiting diamond losses to one trick. This missing, he seemed doomed to lose two diamonds.

But while the tournament director barked "all change" for the end of a round, and players milled about, he figured that West might have the spade J and club A. If so, he could still win. He cashed the spade K, finessed the spade 10—there was the great play—led the club K and discarded the spade A. West had to win this and return a black card to dummy's queens, on which the losing diamonds were shed. Thus was made a contract which appeared beyond all hope, and which proves why Mr. Goren is considered a real champion among champions.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Why is the opportunity to lead against South's 3-No Trumps a disadvantage on this deal instead of an advantage?

HOSTESS TO CLUB.

Mrs. John Spillet of Hyde Park, Pa., was a guest at a meeting of L'Allegro club at the home of Mrs Arthur Shay, 701 Bowman street, recently. The group played five hundred at two tables, and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton won the prize. Mrs. C. L. Mauk will entertain the club at her home on West Third street on Oct. 6.

* * *

FAMILY PICNIC.

Mrs. A. L. Fisher and Mrs. Sherman Wentz were the hostesses yesterday at North Lake park when members of the Friendly Eight club had a family picnic. There were three tables of bridge in play with prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Wentz, Mrs. Fisher and Robert Cook. Mrs. Kemp Oswalt, 578 West Fourth street, will entertain the club Oct. 11.

July Marriage Told Here At Saturday Shower

When Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, 248 Wayne street, entertained Saturday night with a miscellaneous shower party they revealed the marriage of their daughter, Lucille, to Howard Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Long, Bellville. The ceremony was performed at Covington, Ky., July 5. Mr. and Mrs. Long will live with the senior Longs on their farm near Bellville.

Among the guests here for the party were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ungerer and daughter, Florence, Wooster; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Butdorf, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hannon, Mt. Vernon, William Smith and Mrs. Nettie Smith, Fredericktown; Mr. and Mrs. John Chew and Mrs. Russell Bride, Palmyra; Mr. and Mrs. Long, Bellville, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ackerman, Lexington.

MISS MARY LOU ELSASS TO WED JAMES FORD

Oct. 15 Announced As Marriage Date Yesterday Afternoon; Bride-Elect's Mother Entertains With Tea At Susie Janis'.

EACH of the 20 guests at the Susie Janis home yesterday between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m. was presented with a chrysanthemum to which was pinned the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Lou Elsass to James C. Ford. The couple will wed in a closed church ceremony Oct. 15 at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 2:30 p. m.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin C. Elsass, West Fourth street road, was entertained by her mother who presented her with a linen gift. Tea was poured by the bridegroom-to-be's mother, Mrs. Sarah B. Ford, 218 South Diamond street, and Miss Geraldine Sommer, cousin of the bride-elect from North Canton who will be a wedding attendant.

Miss Elsass attended Mansfield Senior high school, Miami university at Oxford, and Bowling Green college. She is a member of Delta Theta Tau sorority, and is employed at the Ohio Fuel Gas company. Mr. Ford, who works at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, also attended Mansfield Senior high school.

Among the guests at the tea were Miss Elsie Janice Sommer, North Canton, Mrs. Baxter Stone, Coshocton, Mrs. James Berry, Columbus, and Miss Marian Binks, Cleveland. Miss Jeanette Kochenderfer is entertaining for Miss Elsass Wednesday evening.

St. Peter's Catholic Church Scene of 8 O'clock Wedding

RT. REV. MSGR. R. C. GOEBEL stood before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church at 8 a. m. Saturday and read the nuptial ceremony for Miss Anna J. Wendling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wendling, sr., 328 Second avenue, and Gail W. Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Shaffer, 175 Bowman street.

Raymond Baum, church organist, played the nuptial mass music while the couple exchanged their vows at the palm banked altar. two seven-branch candelabra were used for lighting.

Miss Wendling was attired in a dress of duchess bridalglow satin with bust fullness and lace applique. The dress ended in a long train. The long veil, which reached to the hem of the gown, was attached to a seed pearl and satin coronet. The bride carried a semi-colonial shower bouquet of white gardenias and swansonia.

Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret Wendling, Cleveland, who wore a rustling faille taffeta dress of cornflower blue trimmed with raspberry velvet bows. With her costume she wore a tiny heart-shaped hat of blue and raspberry and flowers. Her mitts and shoes were also in the raspberry shade. She carried a bouquet of pink Columbia roses and delphinium.

Mrs. Wendling wore plum crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses, and Mrs. Shaffer was attired in marine blue crepe with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of Briar cliffe roses.

For a trip through Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and Washington, D. C., Mrs. Shaffer wore a black and red ensemble with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Upon their return to the city the last day of this month, Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer will be at home at 295½ West Third street.

The bride, who attended St. Peter's high school, has been employed in the accounting department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and Mr. Shaffer, who attended Mansfield Senior high school, is also employed at Westinghouse.

A wedding breakfast was served to 25 at the bride's home following the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake was used as a table centerpiece.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Sept. 25.

Lucy, dear:

This is just the kind of day you wish would stay with us all year. . . .There's a bright sun and it's warm enough to be quite comfortable without a coat—and perhaps more important still, I have a goodly amount of news for you too.

* * * * *

Marianne

As usual at this season, most of the news is about college students and their doings. . . .The morning mail brought word that Elsie McConnell was pledged to Chi Omega sorority on the campus at Randolph-Macon Woman's college in Lynchburg, Va. Saturday afternoon—Elsie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McConnell, enrolled as a freshman at the school about two weeks ago. . . .William F. Black, jr. has returned to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor for his senior year—Bill, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Black, sr., worked at the Mansfield Savings and Trust National bank this summer and also took a Canadian vacation with his father and C. F. Ackerman.

* * * * *

Oh, but that's not all the student news today, Lucy. . . .Robert and Richard Coe, sons of Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Coe, left yesterday for Ohio State university at Columbus—Bob will complete his senior year there, while Dick will enter the school as a freshman . . . .Betty Cheney of Columbus, who has been a guest at the Coe home this past week, went back with Bob and Dick yesterday.

* * * * *

AND speaking of house guests, there seem to have been a great many of them in town recently. . . .Dorothy L. Jones of Chicago spent the week just past here visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Becker. . . .Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Evans entertained Helen Voneman of Cleveland during the last week. . . .Other guests at the Evans home just for the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wildblood, also of Cleveland.

If you're looking for some really exciting news, Lucy, here 'tis. . . .Pat Kramer had a grand finale for her last week's vacation Saturday—because it was then that she received a beautiful diamond engagement ring from John VanWagner of Shelby—during the week she visited with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Freese, of Galion and also went to Columbus for a couple of days.

* * * * *

DR. and Mrs. Riley Frush moved to Lexington last week. . . .He has opened an office there. . . .You probably recall that Dr. Frush was resident doctor at Mansfield General hospital during the past year, and Mrs. Frush (who was Virginia Frye before her marriage) did private duty nursing there.

* * * * *

And in conclusion, I mustn't forget to tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Dailey are here from Shelby, N. C. visiting with Mrs. Dailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Bellnap, for ten days—They also plan to see Mr. Daily's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Dailey of Danville, while they're here.

I GUESS that's about all the news for today, Lucy. I'll write again next week—and in the meantime, drop me a line.

Miss Bartlett Becomes Bride of R. J. Taylor

Afternoon Ceremony At St. Matthew's Church This Week-End

THE altar of St. Matthew's Lutheran church was decorated with two beauty baskets of white gladioli and astors, palms and ivy and lighted with two seven-branch candelabra Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Yone Winona Hoyle Bartlett and Robert John Taylor at 3:30 o'clock.

Preceding the double ring ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, Miss Anna Klippel and Harry Meier furnished the nuptial music. Miss Klippel presided at the organ playing "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan, Herbert's "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," Schubert's "Serenade" and "Liebestraume" by Liszt. She also played "Second movement from the Fifth Symphony" by Tschaikowsky and the semi-classical ballad, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Mr. Meier sang "Because" by DeKoyen and "I Love You Truly" by Bond, and Miss Klippel played DeKoven's "Oh Promise Me" during the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson, 525 Crescent road, was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown of brocaded satin, fashioned along princess lines with a very full skirt cascading into a long wide train. The square neckline of the dress was outlined with satin flowers edged with seed pearls, similar to those in the halo the bride wore on her head. The knee-length net veil, which fell from the floral halo was edged with a double row of silk cording. She carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies tied with white satin ribbon and a kerchief, which the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. John R. Taylor, carried on her wedding day.

Miss Margery Dise was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of azure blue slipper satin trimmed with gold, fashioned with a fitted bodice and back fullness in the floor-length skirt. Her blue net shoulder length veil was held in place with a headress of gold sequins. Her arm bouquet was made from Talisman roses, and yellow pompons tied with blue satin ribbon.

Frederick Becker was Mr. Taylor's best man. Ushers, who escorted the wedding guests to the church pews, which were tied with white satin bows and ribbons, were Glenn Schroff and Merle Spurgeon.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served to the bridal party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The reception room was decorated with palms and bouquets of white roses, while bouquets on the table were of white roses, lilies and maidenhair fern. Mrs. Robertson appeared at the wedding and reception wearing a gown of heather satin lace with black velvet accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids. Mrs. Taylor was attired in a lace dress of lyric rose with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Later in the afternoon the couple left for a short motor trip. Upon their return, they will reside temporarily with Mr. Taylor's mother at 1 Summit court. For traveling Mrs. Taylor wore a grey costume suit with black accessories and an orchid shoulder corsage. She also wore a gold locket and chain, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of Newton high school, Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., and an employe of the Mansfield Telephone company. Mr. Taylor, who was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, attended Ohio university, where he was affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now employed at Humphryes' Manufacturing company.

Frank Gessner Takes Bride at Noon Saturday

Miss Catherine Black Attired In Velvet For Marriage

TO THE softly played strains of the wedding march, Miss Catherine Oberlin Black came up the aisle of the South Main Street Evangelical church on the arm of her father to exchange the nuptial vows with Frank Richard Gessner, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Gessner, sr., Annapolis, Md. Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor, read the ceremony at noon Saturday before the altar which was banked with palms and ferns and decorated with beauty baskets of pompons in shades of bronze, yellow and orchid.

Miss Black, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin L. Black, 686 Lexington avenue, was attired in an ivory velvet frock made with a shirred bodice and full skirt. With it she wore a fingertip length veil attached by a pearl halo. Her arm bouquet was of white chrysanthemums tied in ivory ribbon. She wore an antique gold brooch which belonged to her aunt, and a necklace of gold and pearl, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Kathryn L. Lindley, Galion, who was attired in a fuchsia velvet dress.

Richard L. Oberlin was best man, and Robert Herrold and Charles M. Mayer served as ushers. Mrs. William J. Hazeltine, soloist, sang. Miss Pauline Statler, organist, played.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gessner, jr., received 60 relatives and friend at the Black home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gessner, jr., are now at home at 33 Park drive.

The former Miss Black, who was graduated from Madison high school, has been employed in the office of the Shelby Salesbook company, and Mr. Gessner, who received his A. B. from St. John's university at Annapolis, and his B. E. from John Hopkins at Baltimore, Md., is an engineer with the Tappan Stove company.

Reds Can Win National Flag In Series With Cardinals

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Hail and good fortune to baseball's new "iron man" pitching act—Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds.

* * * * *

When Derringer won his 24th victory of the year by defeating Pittsburgh, 11 to 2, yesterday, he and Walters had accomplished the amazing endurance feat of hurling 51 of the 93 wins which have pushed the Reds within grasping distance of their first pennant since 1919.

* * * * *

The superlative two-man performance surpassed the best previous record of the lively ball era in the major leagues. Dazzy Vance and Burleigh Grimes pitched 50 winners for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1924.

Triumph No. 51 just about made the Redlegs impossible to catch for the St. Louis Cardinals in their crucial four-game set opening with a twin bill Tuesday at Crosley field.

The Rhinelanders hold a 3½ game advantage with seven games left for both clubs. Nothing short of a clean sweep of the series will keep more than a flicker of hope burning for the Cards—and Derringer and Walters are sure bets to pitch two of the games.

Loss of three games would leave the Reds 1½ games in front with three to go while an even split—or a double win Tuesday—would clinch the flag beyond all doubt.

Derringer teased the Pirates with seven hits for the Reds' seventh win in succession yesterday, sweeping the five-game series from Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the McKechnie clan scored with practically no effort as three Pirate hurlers handed out 11 walks and hit one batsman while Cincinnati got only six hits.

Four walks and a smashing double with loaded bases by Ernie Lombardi helped the Reds to six runs in the third inning off rookie Johnny Gee.

Five more runs were added in the eighth inning on four passes, a hit batsman and a double with the bases full by Vince Di Maggio, making his first regular appearance in the Cincinnati lineup. It was Di Mag's only hit as he substituted in right field and the third hitting spot for Ival Goodman who nursed a cold and a stiff neck.

* * * * *

The only two Pittsburgh runs were accounted by Van Robay's home run in the fourth inning and two singles and an infield out in the seventh inning.

* * * * *

The crowd of 19,929 boosted the season attendance mark at Crosley field to more than 900,000.

Walters and Gene Thompson were the selections of Manager Bill McKechnie to face St. Louis on Tuesday with Curt Davis and Morton Cooper as the likely Card moundsmen. Both clubs had open dates only.

Salem, O., Race Driver Hurt In Youngstown Spill

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—The consolation race in which Lynn De Jane, of Salem, O., was participating was ill-named for him. De Jane's midget racing car started to climb a rear wheel of another race car at Canfield track yesterday, then somersaulted and fell on the driver. De Jane was in a Youngstown hospital today with arm and leg fractures and possible internal injuries.

JUDGING from what transpired in Massillon's beautiful new $112,000 stadium, Mansfield will have to absorb several more beatings before it can be expected to play on even terms with the Stark countians.

The second and third string Massillon teams, which held the fort in the final half in the 73 to 0 drubbing, appeared virtually as powerful as the varsity, and Mansfield, if it continues the present rivalry, will have to combat these two clubs for two more years.

Then there is no telling what the Massillon junior high schools will provide in the way of talent to bolster these two clubs.

Mansfield's only hope of ever holding its own with Massillon is to develop a system similar to that city's.

This, Mansfield is attempting to do, but the system now being installed cannot be expected to pay dividends for several years. In the meantime, Mansfield will be forced to provide fodder for Massillon's juggernauts.

* * *

Massillon's spirit is not entirely confined to football, it was again evident Saturday. The Massillon band again produced a show second to none. But don't get the idea that Mansfield musicians were as badly outclassed as the Tygers. J. Merton Holcombe's tooters also drew a big hand.

* * *

Officiating In 73-0 Rout Disgusting.

OFFICIATING in Saturday's brawl was not what you would expect to see in Class A high school football. But, may we remind you, the Massillons did not need the help of the officials to win. However, a more consistent brand of officiating might have helped to discourage Massillon's scoring ambitions.

In the third period, for instance, a potential Mansfield pass receiver was tackled before the ball reached him. The play was right in front of Headlinesman Pat Pasini, who refused to make a ruling.

A similar play came up late in the fourth period when a Tyger bounced into a Massillon receiver, and this time Mansfield was called for interference. It gave the ball to Massillon on the 22 and the final touchdown resulted on the following play.

Referee H. W. Emswiler of Columbus, who seemed to have difficult handling the Akron West game here a week ago, pulled another one for the books in the fourth period.

The Tygers made a first down on Massillon's 45, but an offside penalty was called by Pasini against Mansfield. Emswiler asked the Massillon captain to accept or reject the penalty, and he rejected it. Instead of the Tygers being permitted to retain the ball with a first down on the 45, Emswiler turned the ball over to Massillon.

Late in the second period, Capt. Mike Horvath asked for the measurement for what he believed to be a Mansfield first down in midfield. And from the stands, it looked like a first down, but Emswiler refused three requests for a measurement, and gave Massillon the ball on downs.

On the kickoff after the next to the last touchdown, two five-yard penalties were inflicted against Massillon but only one was marked off on the tape.

* * *

How so many mistakes could be committed by what are supposed to be topnotch officials in one game is more than we can explain.

* * *

Rule Correctly On One Play.

ONE PLAY which brought much criticism from the Mansfield stands was quite legal, though. We refer to the short kickoff in the fourth quarter when a Mansfield player accidentally booted the ball into Massillon's hands.

Present rules automatically give possession of a deliberately or accidentally kicked ball to the opposing team.

This rule is the outcome of the famous kick by the great Larry Kelley of Yale which won an important ball game in the east a few years ago.

Supplies Open With 21-0 Win

Schwaner-to-Dials Passing Combination Features Initial Victory At Blue Goose Field.

A PASSING combination featuring Al Schwaner and Elmer Dials featured the Automotive Supplies' 21 to 0 victory over the Akron O'Neils in their lid lifter at Blue Goose field Sunday before a few hundred spectators.

Coach Earl McMullen's new aerial duo produced one touchdown and set the stage for another as the Supplies dominated play during the greater part of the ball game.

* * *

Harper Au and Vern Heiser accounted for the other two touchdowns, the latter tallying on a pass interception.

* * *

The visiting Akronites never passed the home team's 10-yard line in the game played during adverse football weather. The warm weather necessitated many lineup changes on both sides.

While the Mansfield team showed much promise in its debut, Coach McMullen noticed many defects in the play, and will spend most of this week remedying the shortcomings for the next Sunday's tilt against a foe yet unnamed.

The Mansfield eleven held an 8 to 0 lead at the half. In the first period, a drive sparkled by Joe Miller reached well into Akron territory, but a fumble brought it to a halt.

The Supplies should have been given another scoring opportunity in the first period when an Akron player accidentally kicked a loose ball to the visitors' 32. Akron recovered the ball, but under present rules on kicked ball the pigskin should automatically have gone to Mansfield.

But this was only one of several poor decisions rendered by Referee Meacham of Akron. On another occasion, Akron blocked Schwaner's punt and recovered it near the Mansfield goal, but for some reason or other he gave the ball to the Supplies. He also put the ball in play on the 30 instead of the 20 on a safety.

Schwaner's quick kick which put the ball on Akron's five in the second period led to the first points. Akron's attempt to punt out of trouble was blocked by Tackle Joe Deek, Mansfield obtaining an automatic safety. Deek again blocked a punt later in the game.

* * *

The first touchdown came late in the first half after Schwaner intercepted a pass on Akron's 43. He then threw over the secondary's heads into Dials arms for the score

* * *

Au tallied the second touchdown in the third quarter on a short plunge after Schwaner-to-Dials pass had taken the ball into scoring territory.

Heiser raced down the sidelines for the final touchdown in the fourth period after intercepting a pass on his own 30. Miller kicked the point to end the scoring.

VETERAN DETROIT SCOUT DIES IN WASHINGTON, PA.

William T. (Billy) Doyle, 57, who rose from a pitcher in the old Ohio State league to dean of baseball scouts in the American league, will be buried in Portsmouth Wednesday.

He died early yesterday in Washington, Pa., where he had stopped to scout a club for the Detroit Tigers. The body was returned last night. A deputy coroner said death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage. Doyle made several trips to this city last summer to scout players.

Hi-Speed Club Divides Tilts

Dudley Gives Mansfield Team 3-1 Win at Lucas.

Manager Earl Herrick's Mansfield Hi-Speeds divided a doubleheader with the Lucas baseball club at Lucas yesterday. The Mansfielders copped the opener by a 3 to 1 count, behind the three-hit pitching of Don Dudley, and dropped a 4 to 3 decision in the nightcap.

Dudley, who whiffed 10 and gave up two walks in the first session, aided his own cause with a home run and single. Charles Atton collectted two doubles and a single to lead the Hi-Speeds' 10-hit attack.

M. Gilliland limited the Mansfield team to seven bingles in the seven-inning affair. Franks paced the Lucas team at the plate with a triple and single. Clarence Herrick and Charles Atton had a double and single apiece in the second setto.

Tygers Routed by Massillon, Play In Cambridge Saturday

Mansfield Again Finds Tigers Too Powerful, Suffers Worst Defeat In 26 Years.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO . . . . in the fall of 1913, to be exact, Mansfield high school's footballers were horribly whipped by Toledo Waite, the final score being 88 to 0.

Saturday, over in Massillon, the 1939 football edition of the same school was trampled by the host Tigers, 73 to 0. It is the worst trouncing absorbed by a Mansfield team since 1913.

The humiliating defeat was administered before a crowd estimated at 9,000, which included several thousand Mansfield followers, and probably the most surprised person on the premises was Coach Paul Snyder.

It was an untested team that Snyder sent on the field of battle, but the new mentor little realized that his Tygers would run into a football storm such as presented by the defending state champion Massillon club.

While this fall's Massillon club is rated as the best in five years (and its predecessors were no push-overs, you know), the score of Saturday's game can hardly be taken as a fair comparison of the two elevens.

Mansfield's moral was so badly shattered in the first period that it did not regain the confidence it showed in its play a week ago until the third period.

* * *

Then a couple of bad breaks robbed them of chances to realize a desire to score at least one touchdown.

* * *

Tygers Expected To Stage Comeback.

HOPES FOR a comeback this week-end are not discouraging, but Snyder expects trouble in Cambridge, where the game will be played Saturday.

The Tygers are a much better club than they showed Saturday, we're certain, and if they can shake off the thoughts of the Massillon massacre, they might do well enough during the remainder of the season to make amends.

The Tygers will probably never again see a greater blocking club than they faced in Massillon. The hosts literally mowed would-be Tyger tacklers to the ground as their touchdown jaunts became monotonous.

Coach Paul Brown used three complete teams against the Tigers, and each one scored without apparent effort.

Snyder also used numerous substitutions, and he was particularly pleased with the showing of a number of sophomores.

Had Mansfield been able to ward off the first Massillon drive, the Tygers may have offered the hosts a tougher game. But the Tigers struck so fast and furiously, Mansfield was unable to rally its forces.

The Tygers made one first down in the first half with the aid of a penalty, and only four against second and third string lineups in the final periods.

Mansfield, which reached Massillon territory only twice during the game, made its most serious bid for a touchdown at the start of the third period, and then the deepest it advanced was the 31 on a drive featured by Howard Hershey, playing with the handicap of a bad shoulder.

A fumble at this juncture lost 12 yards and climaxed the thrust.

Massillon had everything Saturday. The Tygers were unable to gain more than 67 yards from rushing, and this speaks mighty well for the strength of the Massillon line.

* * *

Massillon's pass defense could be penetrated, and Mansfield might have accomplished some success in this department had Tyger receivers not been guilty of numerous errors. Three times Mansfield ends dropped perfect passes with nothing but the goal line in front of them.

* * *

Massillon Eleven Best In History.

BUT, UNDERSTAND, not too much praise can be heaped on the Tigers' shoulders. Massillon is the greatest ball club this writer has ever seen in action.

True, Mansfield might have made a more impressive stand had it not become demoralized so quickly, but this fact is no reflection on the strength of the Tigers.

Perhaps the greatest ball players on the field Saturday were Halfback George Slusser and End Ray Getz. These two are superior to any passing combinations ever witnessed on a high school greensward, and the fact that Slusser can also "carry the mail" cannot be denied.

Massillon tallied its first touchdown on the opening kick-off. The Tigers drove from their own 37 into touchdown territory on nine plays. Slusser cutting back on a sweep to score from the one.

The second came minutes later when Slusser again swept across after an exchange of punts to score from the 26 on a sweep to the left behind an army of blockers.

Horace Gillom, big colored end, intercepted a pass on Mansfield's 36, and Massillon scored on two plays, Zimmerman plunging over from the eigth after Slusser tossed a pass to Gillom.

It again took the Tigers two plays to score the last of four first period touchdowns. Taking the ball on the Mansfield 49, where it was lost on downs, Slusser lugged the pigskin to the 33 and then threw to Getz for the score. The period ended 27 to 0.

Massillon scored twice in the second period. A partially blocked Mansfield punt gave the Tigers the ball on the Tygers' 30. On the first play, James raced to the 12 and Getz crossed on a lateral on the next play.

* * *

The final first half score was hung up by Zimmerman on a plunge from the three.

* * *

Mansfield's Spurt After Rest Brief.

TRAILING 41 TO 0 going into the second half, the Tygers spurted briefly, but were forced to yield the ball on a punt after reaching the 31.

After returning the ball to near midfield, a youngster named Fabian got off on a 46 yard jaunt climaxed by a shoestring tackle by Hershey on the two. Clendenning plowed over.

Second and third stringers counted four times in the final period. Fabian plunged for the first of the last four scores from the one, a 51-yard run by Blunt through the entire Mansfield team accounted for the second. Adams drove from the three for the third and White tallied from the 22 for the final score.

Despite the one-sided score, Snyder was well pleased with the performances of Dave Templeton, whose bad leg still bothered him; Alex Radovich and Hershey in the backfield, and Martin Henke and Gene Miller in the line.

The Tygers came out of the fray in "pretty good shape," Snyder stated today, and he expected the entire squad to return to the practice field today.

Billy Conn's Favored In Title Go Tonight.

PITTSBURG — (U.P.) — Handsome Billy Conn, king of the light heavies, risks his title and a golden future in the heavyweight division tonight when he tangles again with Melio Bettina at Forbes field.

Conn is favored at 3-1 to beat the squat southpaw slugger from Beacon, N. Y., just as he did in July when he won the 175-pound crown from Melio.

Moose Keglers Win In League

No. 1, Led by Willis, Wins Four Games From Akron.

Mansfield Moose No. 1 won four out of six games over the week-end in the lodge traveling league, while the No. 2 team dropped two tilts in one match.

Led by Freddy Willis, 621, and Cy Messimer, 620, the No. 1 club came through with a 2819 series to annex two wins at Akron Saturday, and the former's 617, helped by Halsey Hipp's 614, led the same team to 2765 and a pair of wins over Akron at the Meder alleys Sunday.

The No. 2 club suffered two losses in its match with Akron on the home alleys Sunday.

Adams' Team Walloped By Skippies, 25-0

Drops First Game of Season to Defending State Bantam Champions.

Adam's bantamweight footballers didn't do so well in opening their season against the Cleveland Skippies at Cleveland Sunday when they dropped a 25 to 0 verdict.

The Mansfield outfit held the touted Skippies on even terms in the initial period, but couldn't stem the touchdown parade the rest of the way.

Cleveland pushed over a pair of markers in the second frame and added single counters in the third and fourth quarters. Whether the Mansfield team threatened is not known as complete details of the contest were not available.

The Skippies are defending state champions and have suffered only one defeat in their last 62 games.

Dirt Track Stars Drive at Fairground Sunday

MANSFIELD Auto racing enthusiasts will get their first look at legitimate dirt track racing in a long time Sunday when the Ohio Automobile Racing association brings approximately 30 cars to the Richland county fairground oval.

Expected for the six event program are Bob Gerringer, Phoenix, Ariz.; Bobby Mays, Dayton; Jimmy Roderick, Columbus; Chic Smith, Frankfort, Ky., and Bill Chatum, Columbus.

* * *

Gerringer, driving a Stover-Hal Special, finished second in the national dirt track championships sponsored by the American Automobile association at Springfield, Ill., recently, while Chic Smith came up with the Indiana state dirt track championship just a few weeks ago.

* * *

The cars entered in Sunday's race are full size racing jobs, capable of more than 100 miles an hour in the straightaway and everyone eligible for qualifying for the Memorial Day races at Indianapolis next Spring.

Time trials will start at 11 o'clock Sunday morning race officials announced, with the final dash scheduled to get under way about 2:30. The nine fastest cars will go in the 25-lap finale, it was announced.

Sons of Veterans Honor National Commander Here

Dr. R. R. Barrett of Huntington Park, Cal., a former Mansfielder who was recently elected national commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, was honored at a reception given Saturday night at Memorial hall by McLaughlin camp.

Guests were present from Columbus, Wooster, Galion, Shelby, Iberia, Crestline and other towns, representing both the sons and their auxiliary.

Dr. and Mrs. Barrett, who resided in Mansfield for a number of years before moving to California, visited friends here before going to Columbus yesterday where he spoke at the state fall convention. A number of McLaughlin Camp members accompanied him.

In the receiving line for the reception were state and district officers of the Sons and the Auxiliary, as well as Thomas Ridenour of Crestline, senior vice commander of the Ohio G. A. R.

In line were R. J. Williams, Columbus, department secretary; D. M. Walter, Shelby, department junior vice commander; George L. Pfiefer, Wooster, department council; William Brubacker, Ashland, department organizer; Mr. Glasgow, Wooster, district commander; Mrs. Mary Mull, Columbus, department president of the auxiliary; Mrs. May Eberhard, Columbus, department secretary of the auxiliary; Mrs. Jane Beelman, Mansfield, district president; and Mrs. Ethel Constance, Mansfield, department organizer.

After a program of entertainment, the address of welcome was given by Atty. L. H. Beam, and Commander Barrett gave a short talk. R. H. Stevens presided.

Boilermakers Should Figure In Race If Schedule Doesn't Crack Their Armor.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

If you should visit the campus of Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind., and come upon A. H. (Mal) Edward weeping off in a deserted corner, those tears are being shed over football. But it's about the Purdue schedule, not the team, that the coach wets his eyes.

Purdue has that tought a schedule this year.

The opener? With Notre Dame!

And then comes—Minnesota!

And for the third game— Michigan State!

As if that wasn't enough, the fourth—Santa Clara!

* * *

Getting to the point: If Purdue overcomes what may be a bad case of scheduleitis, the Boilermakers are going to be plenty headstrong in the conference.

* * *

Runner-up last year, Purdue hasn't tasted a Western Conference victory all by itself since 1929. The team came close last year and with an even better club this season, it's easy to see why the team is rated one of the best in the loop. But, oh, that schedule! What it might do to the varsity and the reserves!

The Boilermakers have 25 lettermen back, all major ones. The team lost 16 men by graduation, including five tackles, four backs, three ends, two centers and two guards.

For backfielding chores, Coach Edward has one of the finest collection of bacon bringers in the circuit. They're known as the "B" men, in contrast to the Notre Dame "S" men.

The "B" men, reading anyway you wish, are Lou Brock, Jack Brown and Mike Byelene. They take care of the halfback chores.

* * *

"Midget" Mike Byelene, one of the several Massillon, O., products on the squad, set himself up as a fleet open-field runner as a soph last season.

* * *

The line will be built about Carl Verplank and Frank Bykowski, veteran guards; Gene Britt, Felix Mackieqicz, Jack Krause and Dave Rankin, ends; Al Rossi, Dick Potter and Pete Timperman, tackles, and Augie Morningstar, also of Massillon, center.

In the photos above, Mike Byelene is shown at the left, Augie Morningstar, center, both of Massillon, and Lou Brock, right.

Two for the Tigers!

SCRIMMAGES ON DOCKET FOR BUCKS THIS WEEK

COLUMBUS—(UP)—More scrimmage was ordered this week for the Ohio State football squad by Coach Francis Schmidt today as the Bucks began defensive preparations for their opening game Oct. 7 against Missouri.

This will be the final week for heavy scrimmage work and Schmidt said he would make the most of it to smooth out rough edges in blocking that appeared in a 60-minute workout Saturday. The varsity squad tallied five touchdowns against reserves with Jim Langhurst, junior fullback, getting two scores, and passing for a third one to Jim Strausbaugh, halfback.

Tyger Swingers Win Golf Match At Shelby Club

The Mansfield high school golf team which will carry the Tygers' colors on the fairways in 1940 got a little pre-season practice on Saturday.

Coach V. H. Oberlander's proteges invaded Shelby to hand the Whippets golf representatives a 13 to 7 beating at the Shelby Country club. Albert Hager, playing the No. 1 position for Mansfield and Garvin of Shelby shared individual medal honors with a pair of 79's.

Mansfield will entertain the Shelby club in a match at Possum Run Saturday. The Mansfielders defeated the St. Peter's high school in a contest at Possum Run last Wednesday. It marked the first time the Catholic school has been represented on the golf course.

NOTICE—DITCH BIDS

Sealed Bids will be received on the 2nd day of October, 1939 at 10 o'clock A. M., at the office of the County Auditor of Richland County, Ohio, for the furnishing of materials, Vit. Sewer pipe, alternate plain concrete pipe kiln run common brick and inlet grates for the County work located in Madison Township in Richland County, Ohio, petitioned for by Madison Twp. Trustees and others.

Said bids shall be in writing on a form to be furnished by the County Surveyor, and be accompanied with either a deposit of money, or a certified check on some bank, or a bill of current commercial exchange in an amount of three per cent of the bid as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will sign the contract for the performance of the work, or for furnishing the material bid upon, and will furnish such bond to the County for the performance of the contract signed as may be required by law.

The Board of County Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners of said County.

H. C. SWORD,
County Engineer.

THEATERS

ALL OF THE STUDIOS are scrambling to get Maria Ouspenskaya into a picture since her distinguished performance in three pictures—"Conquest," "Love Affair" and "The Rains Came." Old and without any physical beauty she walked away with the scenes in which she appears. The veteran actress has been trying to divide her time between Hollywood and New York City where she operates one of the most distinguished dramatic schools in the country. Because of the demands on her in Hollywood, commuting is out of the question, so she is moving her school to the Pacific coast. Meanwhile she is doing a new role in "Judge Hardy and Son."

* * *

Famous Stage Play.

William Holden, a newcomer, makes an impression as Joe Bonaparte, the boy who was too sensitive to be a fighter and too poor to be a musician, in Clifford Odets "Golden Boy." The picture, made from the stage play, with Barbara Stanwyck and Adolphe Menjou, is the Madison theater attraction. A conflict between parental discipline and rebellious youth is depicted in "Parents on Trial," the second feature Jean Parker and Johnny Downs are featured.

* * *

Strictly Modern.

Ohio theater patrons are getting a tremendous kick out of "The Women" judging from the audience reaction, and probably wondering how it passed the Ohio Board of Censors, with its modern line of wisecracks. In its cast of all women are some of Hollywood's brightest stars, best comedians and prettiest girls. The three top notchers are Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell. There are no men in it "in person" although most of the dialogue is about men.

* * *

Role Takes Ability.

The screen's Number One Lady, Bette Davis, plays a role that calls for two personalities in "Dark Victory;" one a brittle, short-tempered, society girl and the other a tender and understanding wife whose greatest concern in her dark tragedy is not for herself but for her husband. Only an actress of Miss Davis' stature could make the transition convincingly. George Brent is her leading man in this film, which is at the Ritz through Tuesday. "The Return of the Cisco Kid" with Warner Baxter is also shown.

* * *

No Hollywood Pilot.

John Trent, who has the role of Tailspin Tommy in the series of pictures based on the newspaper cartoon, isn't a Hollywood airman, but the real McCoy. Trent, whose real name is La-Verne Browne, was captain pilot of a TWA passenger plane between New York City and Kansas City in 1936 when a Paramount executive made a trip with him. The "raves" of the feminine members of his family led him to offer the good looking pilot a test. And now he's in the movies. His latest picture, "Stunt Pilot" is at the Park. The other feature is "Good Girls Go to Paris."

* * *

Cowboy And a Lady.

Sam Goldwyn's romantic picture "The Coyboy and the Lady" has Gary Cooper as the cowboy and Merle Oberon as the "lady" who followed her heart in spite of her father's millions and political prestige. Cooper has one of the whimsical roles which he does so well. On the same bill at the Majestic is "Calling Dr. Kildare," the second in the serious of picture revolving around a young physician and which stars Lew Ayers and Lionel Barrymore.

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

An early winter is predicted in Europe—news item. Aw, that isn't snow—just some more leaflets.

* * *

The United States certainly is the land of overabundance. In Europe there is no Thanksgiving day while we have one too many.

* * *

America is the land of opportunity where everyone gets a second chance to make good—everyone, except a football coach.

Now that the gridiron season is rapidly approaching we are again reminded that the nicest thing about the All-American football team is that the candidates for it never make political speeches.

MOTORS, STEELS HOLD PACE IN MIXED MARKET

Traders Wary Pending Further Action on Neutrality Bill in Capital.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market gave an uneven performance today with most shares in a narrow track.

After a moderate opening the pace remained slow and traders were devoting most of their attention to the steels and motors, which showed slight gains. The balance of the list was pretty well mixed.

Professionals were wary pending further action on the neutrality legislation at Washington and were less sensitive than might be expected to week-end favorable business news.

Board room analysts noted the nation's railroads, spurred by heavily mounting carloadings have taken drastic steps to prevent traffic delays including an emergency order for all box cars in western territory to be returned to home territory immediately.

The National Association of Lumber Manufacturers announced the industry was receiving business at the highest rate since 1930, with placements for last week running 44 per cent ahead of the preceding period.

Virtually the same condition exists among the machine tool makers, it was reported.

LETS CONTRACT

City Buys Water Pipe, Fittings From Coshocton Firm.

The James B. Clow and Sons company, Coshocton, lowest of two bidders, was awarded the contract today by the city board of control for delivery of materials to be used by the water department.

The contract, totalling $1,049, calls for the delivery of 700 feet of four-inch cast iron pipe, 600 feet of six-inch pipe and two tons of four and six-inch fittings.

The other bidder on the materials was the U. S. Pipe and Foundry company, Chicago, who submitted a price of $884 on the pipe and a bid of $120 per ton on the four-inch fittings and $110 per ton on the six-inch fitting.

City council authorized the purchase of the materials at its Sept. 5 meeting.

AIRPLANES BOMB NAZI ZEP BASE, CRIPPLE PLANT

Swiss Border Reports Indicate French or British Bombers Made Two Raids.

counter-attacks wrested from the Poilus in the past week.

Over the week-end, reports said, fully co-ordinated French and British aviation corps received orders to keep German airmen out of French-occupied territory for 48 hours at all costs.

Observers here said they believed the order was given to cover extensive movements of troops and equipment from the French Maginot Line to bases to the front between the industrial city of Saarbruecken and Wissembourg yesterday and Saturday.

Half of Warsaw In Flames, Radio Says

BUDAPEST, Hungary — (U.P.) — Radio broadcasts indicated today that German artillery was demolishing Warsaw, fifth largest European capital, which German troops still were unable to capture after a 17-day siege.

A broadcast from the besieged city at 9 o'clock last night said that half of Warsaw was burning, that the explosion of heavy artillery shells was incessant and that many wounded, including women and children, lay in the open streets receiving first aid from Red Cross nurses.

Churches, palaces, hospitals, railway stations, hotels, banks and shops, with art treasures accumulated for centuries, were reported in ruins.

(At Paris, Transcontinental Press, a Polish agency, reported that the German general staff had decided to hold its troops back and shell the city into submission. The agency said the Germans were firing incendiary shells. It was reported that more than half the city's churches had been destroyed and that only one hospital was standing.)

(Exchange Telegraph dispatches reaching London Sunday noon said that 1,000 Warsaw civilians had been killed in 24 hours, including hundreds who braved the artillery fire to attend church services yesterday and died in the streets going or coming.

A broadcast heard here said that an airplane bomb hit one church during mass and that the priest interrupted himself only long enough to urge the worshippers to keep calm.

One of the two Warsaw radio stations, whose broadcasts had been heard regularly in London, was reported damaged by a bomb Saturday and was silent yesterday. The other station, heard here at 19.20 megacycles, continued to inform the world of Warsaw's defense and the broadcaster last night appealed again to Great Britain and France to send help to the beleaguered city.

LUKE, DAN MEET

Brothers, 51 and 62, See Each Other For First Time.

LANCASTER, Pa. —(AP)— Two brothers—Luke Rineer, 51, of Dayton, O., and Daniel Rineer, 62, of Lancaster—met yesterday for the first time in their lives.

Daniel, then seven, decided he'd stay behind and work on a farm when the family moved west. Said brother Luke: "I reckoned it was about time I got acquainted with Dan."

PUBLISHER SHOT

Illinois Police Accuse Uncle of Newspaperman-Attorney.

BENTON, Ill. —(AP)— Carl Choisser, publisher of the Benton Evening News, was shot three times in the abdomen today by a man who stepped from behind a telephone pole to fire at the attorney-newspaper man on the public square here. Choisser was rushed to a physician's office.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Dillon said the assailant was Dr. George W. Gore, sr., Choisser's uncle by marriage and father of George W. Gore, jr., whom Choisser was representing in a murder case to be held Oct. 16. Young Gore was to be tried on a charge of murder in the slaying of his step-mother.

A second deputy who declined to give his name said Dr. Gore, well-to-do Benton physician, had been taken in custody but had not been brought to the county jail here.

HEARS KIN ON BOAT HIT BY SUB

Brother-In-Law of New London Man Missing; Was on Warship.

NEW LONDON—W. A. Fowdon of New London today received word that his brother-in-law, George Davies of Plymouth, England, was one of the men reported missing from the crew of the British aircraft carrier Courageous, sunk last week by an enemy submarine.

Davies was a member of the crew of 1,200 on the carrier when it was sunk by a German sub not far from the British coast. A toll of 579 members of the crew were either reported dead or missing.

DEATH DEMANDED

Radio Script Writer on Trial For Murder of Schoolgirl.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. —(AP)— Charles Jefferson, erstwhile theatrical director and radio script writer, today was the central figure of a courtroom drama in which he was cast as the slayer of a girl to whom he posed as a talent scout and promised a movie career.

State Attorney Phil O'Connell said he would ask the death penalty for the killing Aug. 8 of pretty Frances Dunn, 17-year- old Miami high school girl.

WORKERS SCARCE

Pittsburgh District Begins to Feel Labor Shortage.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— A shortage of skilled machinists, miners and highway workers, resulting from the business pickup, was reported in the Pittsburgh and Clearfield county districts today.

S. Chapman Wright, manager of the Pittsburgh office of the State Employment Service, said: "It is getting to the place where an employer who needs a good man has to go out and look for him."

The Duke of Windsor, former ruler of the British Empire, is reported to have arrived at British General Headquarters in France to assume staff duties as a major general. Photo first published showing him in his new uniform, radioed from London to New York.

PASSES EXAM

Former State Patrolmen Here Is Successful In Test.

William Harrison, who was formerly stationed at the Mansfield State Highway Patrol barracks, was one of 240 men to pass highway patrol examinations July 28, the state Civil Service Commission has announced in Columbus.

Harrison was transferred to Marietta Sept. 5. He served here one year as a provisional appointee. Names of the 165 leaders in the exam will be certified to the patrol for selection of 109 members to succeed provisional appointees.

Anthony Schmieg of Mt. Vernon, another provisional appointee, was third highest in the examinations.

APPEAL MAPPED

Griffith to Take Referendum Fight To Higher Court.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Counsel for Secretary of State Earl Griffith planned to ask the district appellate court today to set aside a common pleas court decision compelling Griffith to forward petitions for a referendum on the civil service re-organization act to county election boards.

The appeal was expected to delay further a battle by the state Democratic organization to place the Bricker administration's revised merit system statute on the November ballot.

CHAPTER XIII

Therefore, he concluded the cause of death was some iternal ailment, unsuspected even by the patient himself. That was outside his province.

"I'm sorry," he said, "that I have been of so little use But since you feel fairly sure that the autopsy will disclose a physical reason for this death, it doesn't seem like a mystery,—at any rate, not the sort of mystery I can undertake to solve; so I may as well go downstairs again."

"Just a minutet, Mr. Stone," Doctor Bascom said, "supposing the result of the autopsy is nothing at all. Suppose it shows nothing wrong with the organs or with the brain, what then?"

"Isn't the brain an organ?" Stone inquired, smiling

"Yes, but I mean the abdominal organs. Could a bit of overeating or over-drinking last night have caused a sort of acute congestion that would cause a stroke of apoplexy?"

"That we must learn from the autopsy," Kenn reiterated "But I believe the man had a brain-storm of some kind."

"Did you, Doctor Bascom, say something about cerebral thrombosis?" Stone asked, looking closely at the dead face.

"Yes, sir. I did and I still think the face shows that appearance.'

"I think so, too," said Fleming Stone.

* * *

Just then there was a quick tap at the door, and without waiting for a response, Cornelia Madison came in. She looked anxious but not excited. She paused by her brother's bedside, and stood looking down at him for a moment, her face sad, and full of affection Then she went straight to Fleming Stone, and said:

"May I trouble you a moment, Mr. Stone?"

"You cannot be a trouble to me, Miss Madison, what can I do for you?"

"Do you want us to go away?" asked Doctor Fenn, politely

"Oh, no, no; it is nothing private"

But Doctor Bascom said he must go, his patients were waiting for him. He left the arranging of the autopsy in the hands of the Examiner, and went away.

"Mr. Stone," Miss Cornelia said, "the Madison pearls are missing. They are very valuable, and it would seem they must have been stolen. But I cannot think any one in the house would take them, yet, they are not to be found."

"You want me to help find them, Miss Madison?"

"Oh, yes, yes, indeed."

"Where were they seen last?"

"Mr. Stone we have had a lady visiting here for a short time. She is Miss Yvette Verne—"

"The film star!"

"Yes. She is a very lovely girl, and last night my brother announced their engagement."

"Yvette Verne and Harley Madison to marry?"

"Yes,—so they hoped. Then, this morning Harley is found dead. Miss Verne told me she must run down to New York, as she had some important matters to attend to, and, too, she wanted to fetch some black gowns to wear while here."

"She is staying on with you?"

"I don't know. She will be back soon, I think Last night, after the announcement of the engagement, I brought her the Madison pearls They are historic, and I told her I would give them to her for a wedding present. I hung them round her neck, and said she might not keep them then, but must return them to me, and on her wedding day she would have them for her very own.

"And now we cannot find them. I have looked and my friend Mrs. Boyce has looked, but we cannot find them. I don't want to tell the servants, just yet, so, I wondered if you could help me out"

"I'll gladly try to Will you go down stairs, and I will follow you very shortly I want another word with Doctor Fenn, while I have the opportunity."

* * *

After Cornelia was gone, Stone took up the subject of Madison's death

"What made Doctor Bascom say cerebral thrombosis?" he inquired

"I don't know, I'm sure," Fenn replied "I suppose he thought Madison showed some symptom that suggested it"

"Then he ought to have told us I believe that a sort of cerebral thrombosis is the reason for this death"

"A sort of—why, there's only one sort, and that comes without warning, and is almost always fatal Why do you think Harley had an attack of that?"

"Because of the results. I say, Fenn, mind if I make an experiment?"

"What sort of experiment?"

"Only a more thorough examination"

Fenn looked amazed and not very pleased, but he made no objection.

Stone went over to the bed, and taking the head of the dead man in his hands, moved it a very little so that the back of the neck was fully exposed Taking from his pocket a tiny flashlight, he examined the flesh just at the line of haircut He discovered a tiny spot, an almost imperceptible indention of the flesh.

He showed it to Fenn, saying, "Have you instruments here?"

"Yes, I have.' What is that?"

"The weapon that killed Harley Madison. What you see is the end of a very slender blade or dart, which was driven into the medulla oblongata, and produced cerebral hemorrhage. The natural indrawing tendency of the flesh has nearly drawn it in, out of sight. Can you get it, with pincers or something?"

"I'll have a try at it."

Doctor Fenn, by dint of some slight incisions, managed to grasp the end of the dart with his pincers and drew it out.

It was a metal pin, seemingly, about as big as a small awl blade, and was the color of nickel or silver.

"A diabolical weapon!" exclaimed the medical examiner. "The stab from this dart, had the effect of a stroke of apoplexy. I'll hand it to you, Stone; if you hadn't been here I should have massed it! And old Bascom never would have found it. I doubt if we'd noticed it at the post mortem."

"Oh, of course you would. Now there's the weapon, we must find the criminal."

"Too easy. A film star comes here, gets herself engaged to the old man, has the family pearls given to her, or lent to her. She doesn't want the old man, but she does want the pearls, so she lights out for New York, and, naturally, takes the pearls with her, and I think Miss Madison has seen the last of the pearls and the star."

"I don't see it that way. From some hints I picked up, I think both of those young cousins are in love with the girl, and one of them might have been willing to put uncle out of the way, in hope of getting the lady."

"That's up your alley I don't envy you the job Have you forgotten the hermetically sealed room?"

"There's always a way in I've been up against many kinds of unenterable rooms, but I always found a way in."

"Think it was some member of the family, then?"

"Not yet. I'm leaning toward the Village Fathers. They seem more likely game than this aristocratic family."

"We'd better go down and tell them what we've found." Fenn looked a little sheepish. "What you fond, I mean. But—"

"Oh, say you found it. It's no great honor to me."

Grateful Mansfield Lady Praises Vendol and Calls It The Finest Medicine

"I Feel Better Than in Years," she says. Had pains in Back and Limbs, Gas, Indigestion, due to Constipation, Before She Found the Vendol Medicine.

The fame of Vendol continues to spread as one well known Mansfield resident after another comes forward to tell other sufferers how this remarkable Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine has brought them relief from the tortures of acid indigestion, sour stomach, gas, bloating, biliousness, headaches, dizzy feelings, pains in the back and limbs, and other symptoms caused by constipation or need of a diuretic to make the kidneys act more freely. Among the latest to testify to the remarkable powers of Vendol is Mrs Margaret McCaskey of 61 High St, Mansfield, who has a son holding a good position at Westinghouse, and whose own story of how it relieved her is told in the following words

"My troubles all came from allowing myself to stay constipated, and this caused my food to disagree with me so badly that most everything I ate seemed to lay heavy in my stomach, forming gas which gave me awful cramps, and made me feel dizzy. I felt nervous and irritable, tired, and no-good. Sometimes my legs ached, and my back had a dull pain across it all the time.

"Vendol made short work of all this suffering by relieving my constipation; then all those troubles just gradually faded away and now I feel so good all the time that I am grateful to Vendol, and think it the finest medicine I ever tried"

Start on Vendol today, and see how quickly you too begin to feel better. See the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., Mansfield and he will tell you all about this remarkable medicine and what it can do for you. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend it.

Confidence

GOLDEN-RUSSELL MANSFIELD, O.

Style-conscious women of Mansfield want good clothes because they have always worn them. With changing conditions, they are now, more than ever before, obliged to be a little more critical of expenditures and know they are getting their money's worth. Only confidence in a store can provide this assurance. Such confidence in the Golden-Russell label, as has won for this store its enviable reputation for smartness.

The atmosphere at Golden-Russell's is friendly and informal . . . background, interiors and air-conditioning are of the best. This, however, is not permitted to overshadow this store's main regard for quality and interest in smart fashions. We run our business as carefully and economically as possible to be assured that no matter what you pay for a garment . . . as much or as little as you care to spend . . . you can have absolute confidence in the knowledge that you are getting your money's worth at Golden-Russell's.

With the new sense of values being developed by smart women, it is no wonder that stores like ours . . . and people like you are constantly being brought together.

. . . because you love smart things . . .

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1939.

Returning tourists agree that, be it ever so unexciting, there's no place like home.

There's an idea that before long odors can be transmitted by radio—which will be bad if applied to some of the jokes.

If the depression was an aftermath of the World war and recovery awaits another war, human intelligence seems to still have a long way to go.

Sentiment Against Embargo Repeal

AMONG those in Mansfield who have expressed themselves on the subject, opinion leans strongly against removal of the arms embargo from the Neutrality Act.

As nearly as can be judged by reports from other parts of the country, and by protests pouring in to offices of senators and congressmen, majority sentiment elsewhere is much the same, although a recent Gallup poll, purporting to reflect a cross section of nation-wide opinion on this subject, shows a 57 per cent majority in favor of the "cash and carry" proposal.

President Roosevelt's address at the re-convening of congress last Thursday, in which he urged repeal of the arms embargo as the best way to keep the United States out of the European war, does not appear to have made any considerable change in the attitude of people over the country.

There can be no doubt that the president, and those who support his plans to supply munitions to belligerents on a "cash and carry" basis, are just as sincere in their efforts to keep this country out of war as are those who favor continuance of the embargo on arms.

The word "neutral" is defined by Webster's International dictionary as: "Not engaged on either side; not taking part with or assisting either of two or more contending parties; lending no active assistance to either or any belligerent."

According to this definition, national neutrality is a matter of acts, rather than of words or thoughts, and either the present embargo, or its removal, can be defended as "neutral"—in fact this is just what is now being done by contenders for each of these courses.

The chief present objective, however, of President Roosevelt, members of congress and the American people, is to determine how best to proceed in preventing foreign entanglements which might later make it necessary to enter the war—as came about in 1917 when European nations were in another of their age-old conflicts.

This is a decision which must finally be made by senators and congressmen, who are the chosen representatives of the people and who are assumed to reflect the judgment and desires of their constituents. If you wish to express your views on this subject to the men who are your representatives in Washington, their names and addresses are: Senators Vic Donahey and Robert A. Taft, Senate Office Building; Congressman William A. Ashbrook, House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

The same type of juvenile leadership required for rowdyism can be made valuable if directed along right lines.

South American Trade

FROM far-away Montevideo, Uruguay, comes a letter to an American manufacturer asking for help in buying textile goods, automobile accessories, stationery and printing supplies. The manufacturer will be happy to oblige.

"Now the only hope for our importers is North America," says the writer, "because communications with Europe will be more difficult all the time. Furthermore, the interest in products from your country is very great here."

Europe's misfortune thus becomes America's opportunity. This Latin-American trade can be accepted with a clear conscience, because we are in no way responsible for war across the Atlantic and have done all that could be done to prevent it. And it isn't merely transient trade that is now coming from our neighbors to the south. They appreciate more than ever before our friendly attitude toward them and the need of all the free American countries clubbing together.

Don't be seriously disturbed about making a mistake—it's making the same mistake a second time that should bother you.

Gain In Sales Tax Receipts

SUBSTANTIAL gains in sales tax receipts in Mansfield and Richland county, as well as over Ohio in general, cannot be attributed entirely to increased volume of sales.

The 3 per cent redemption value of sales tax stamps must also be credited for having created a greater public interest in making sure that stamps are given with each taxable sale, and it is noticed that store floors are no longer littered with discarded stamps, as was the case before stamps were being saved by various organizations interested in securing the refund.

In a number of instances funds devoted to some particular church or club activity have been considerably augmented by "cashing in" sales tax stamps and it seems that practically everybody in Mansfield is now saving stamps for some favorite benevolence.

It has been said that "it takes nine tailors to make a man"—but one bookmaker can break him.

Mankind's Worst Enemies

THE most persistent enemies of man, says Dr. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard medical school, are ignorance, poverty, disease and moral degradation. They are an active or latent menace everywhere, and against them every nation should be willing to struggle with all its energy. Any victory over them is a benefit to all men.

"Those who are guilty of starting a war between human beings," Dr. Cannon maintains, "are traitors to all men. For in war it is these same persistent enemies which secure immensely increased advantages."

Any intelligent person can fill out the rest of the picture for himself—the injustice, hatred and bitterness which war spreads like poison through great populations, and whose effects last for years or generations; the waste of vast resources which might have made life safer and happier for millions; the crippling and killing of thousands or even millions of people; the perversion of human ideals.

It is impossible for sane people, living in an atmosphere of sanity, to believe that the wars raging in Europe and Asia are necessary. They are a disease sprung from ignorance, hate and fanaticism, and a disease by which the greatest civilization that has ever appeared on this earth is endangered.

Business Warned Against Overexpansion Danger

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—We have come upon some data about mustard gas that may arouse memories of World war veterans, particularly since it is pretty certain that the old burner will used again on the French, English and Germans on the western front.

None of the countries now at war, nor even the humane United States, has any idea of giving up mustard gas as a war weapon. In fact, United States military men, together with some of the chemical warfare experts of other countries, have been defending the stuff as one of the more humane ways of winning battles.

Casualties are high, but only a few of the casualties are going to die and only a few more will be permanently crippled. The same can't be said of bullets or a jagged hunk of exploding shell. Anyway, that is the contention of the gas warfare advocates.

As a gas, mustard is just about tops. Gas masks will keep the soldiers from inhaling—but that is only a fractional protection from mustard. That stuff soaks into clothes, burns little blisters at the slightest contact, and makes a hospital case out of even the mildest attacks. It can't be handled in a field dressing station, in the manner of a minor nick from a bullet or shell fragment.

* * *

Compound Interest.

WHEN a soldier gets a touch of mustard gas he is out of the war from 30 to 90 days—and perhaps for the duration.

The stuff grows on you. Each little blister fills with juice just like a burn. But the juice is not ordinary juice. When the blister breaks, the juice wil raise more blisters where ever it touches. And those blisters make more blisters, endlessly.

A tiny blister may form unnoticed under a soldier's belt. It breaks under the weight of his pack and runs down his thigh. A little chain of blisters form. He is a sick man. He may try to keep on fighting, just to get another crack at the bloody butchers, but it is no use. He scratches the burn with his finger and rubs his face. Then little blisters start there and off we go again.

Sprayed across a road the gas will prevent troops passing that way for a week or ten days at least. In woods or brush it may last several weeks. A mustard bomb dropped in an industrial plant would make casualties out of all who were sprayed by it, or who handled the machinery before it had been treated.

* * *

We've Got a Lot.

IF IT happens to be spattered over an airdrome, all planes touched by it must be put out of commission until they are specially treated. A badly soused plane can hardly be recovered. The mustard gums up the delicate working parts in the dashboard mechanism.

The stuff can be washed away with lime by men wearing specially treated suits which prevent the gas getting to their skin. Doubtless it would delay operations in an industrial plant only a few hours.

The slightest residue remaining in the cockpit will start blisters on the pilot unless he is willing to fly in a gas-proof suit. That is uncomfortable. Such suits are airtight.

Taken to a hospital a soldier is put to bed. The little blisters are drained so the juice won't touch him. Caught in time—before the stuff gets out of hand—the effects can be cured, and the soldier put back in the dugouts.

And the gas isn't mustard at all. It just smells like it, and looks like it.

Uncle Sam knows where he can get a lot of it.

Listen, World!

Are Women Competent Counsellors?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HERE'S an intelligent youngster who's asking a question which may have puzzled you, too. And possibly riled you as well!

She's a private secretary in Big Industry—serious, thoughtful, knows her way around. Her position requires her to be present frequently at conferences between capital and labor, to prepare reports and talk confidentially with representatives from both sides. She has found these representatives to be equally sincere, anxious to effect a practical compromise. But she's increasingly impressed by one fact—

There are no women in these conferences. And both sides agree that women are incompetent to meet thees issues . . . . are too "ignorant of economics to be useful." But why——?

"How can anyone accuse women of ignorance of economics," she cries. "It is well known that women control 80 per cent of America's wealth. Men are the earners; women are the spenders of America's money. And no woman who has to be responsible for the health, comfort and progress of her family can possibly be ignorant of economics.

"Men see money in the abstract. Women see it as a personal issue. They know its real value in human life. Women know what unemployment actually means . . . . what war actually costs. They are the REALISTS . . . men are the THEORISTS. Men discuss hours, wages, overtime, etc. Women translate these problems into terms of health and happiness, birth and death, progress or demoralization. On them rests the future of the nation—whether we are to be a good or bad people, a healthy or a sick people, a wise or a stupid people.

"AND THESE ARE THE CONCERNS NOT ONLY OF THE CULTURED, EDUCATED WOMEN, THE POOREST AND MOST ILLITERATE WOMAN MUST STRUGGLE WITH THE SAME PROBLEMS. HERS IS THE COMMON SENSE ON WHICH THE NATION STANDS OR FALLS. YET THEY SAY THAT WOMEN KNOW NOTHING OF ECONOMICS'!

"It seems to me both stupid and shortsighted to exclude women from industrial conferences. I am not a feminist, in the shrill sense of the word. But it seems to me that the plain facts prove that women have a better working knowledge of applied economics than men, and that their advice would prove invaluable."

* * *

SOUNDS convincing, doesn't it? But I wonder if you'll agree. You may say that women "are too excitable to sit in on conferences. . . . they get mad too easily . . . they cry and carry on . . . they take everything too personally."

And I've brought that same charge myself against my sex. I too have felt that we women lack the control necessary for these vitally important debates . . . that we're not trained, yet, to take "the long view" as men do. . . .

But isn't that "long view" the very thing which is wrong with our 100 per cent male conferences? Don't men take too long a view of all these great human problems—such a long view that they forget the actual tears and sweat and blood which are entailed? Women can't take a long view because they are personally involved in it all. They bear the babies who will be killed in wars. They share the burdens which are involved in industry. Their lips are salt with the sweat—their hearts are wrung with the blood—their eyes are blind with the tears which are consequence of male blundering.

If men could see closer wouldn't they act wiser? Doesn't woman's NEAR view make for the CLEAR view? What's YOUR vote?

Ohio Aids Conservation.

Everyone used to talk conservation of natural resources but did nothing about it. However, Ohio is a state where such talk has been translated into action. The latest addition to Ohio's great assets of the sort is 40,000 acres of forest reserve. This is in three tracts in southeastern Ohio. During five years these stretches of submarginal and eroded lands have been planted by the federal government and are now turned back to the care of the state forestry department.

In recent years, Ohio has completed two great conservation district improvements for flood control. Some distinctive accomplishments in wild life protection are to the state's credit. Now the forestry work is added as an example of the new forethought which Ohioans have and citizens of all states should have more than they do.—Toledo Blade.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In the world of the theater, drama stems mostly from life, but a news dispatch from the interior of Europe tells how this process has been reversed and gives us an instance where life, if not stemming, is certainly paralleling the familiar lines of Bob Sherwood's play, "Idiot's Delight."

Most of you will recall this Pulitzer Prize drama, or certainly the movie, with Shearer and Gable, in which a reformed shill, in charge of a third-rate group of vaudeville hoofers were trapped in Europe by the outbreak of war.

These girls were in a "Fascist" country and were witnesses, with the audience, of the behind-the-scene manipulations of the Big Munitions manufacturers, who allegedly compel wars to be fought, so that their factories can keep turning.

Now that war had broken out in reality, Broadway was wondering about those eight young girls—dancers in the line—which Georgie Hale sent on a tour of Europe several months ago. War caught them in the interior of the continent, just as the little show biddies in "Idiot's Delight" were trapped in a great hotel, close to the frontier, where the thunder of the guns could be plainly heard, and the drone of the planes were as persistent as the buzz of flies in fly time.

I suppose those little American girls have heard plenty of planes drone by and guns, too.

MUCH has been written of John Steinbeck's earlier career, of the long, lean days when he worked as a carpenter, picked fruit on farms, and generally starved before he became a writer of best-selling novels. Now another young man, Pietro di Donato, a bricklayer, has tossed away his hod for a typewriter and written an amazing book (it is amazing from a standpoint of sales at least) which carries the somewhat startling title of "Christ in Concrete."

* * *

MUCH emphasis is being placed on the ability of these men to rise above the bonds of menial slavery and win a place in contemporary letters, but that sort of thing has been going on for centuries. Knute Hamsun, the Scandinavian writer, began life as a street-car conductor in Chicago. Jack London was for years a stevedore along the docks of San Francisco. He became a celebrated adventurer and turned to writing because he couldn't help himself. Jim Tully was a road kid and a circus roustabout. I have heard him talk for hours of those days when meals were far between, and when he never knew where the next nightfall would find him. He became a writer simply because Jack London was his hero, and because writing was easy for him.

* * *

One of the beauty spots of Manhattan is Bryant Park, at the rear of the Library, on Sixth avenue. This used to be a place to be strictly avoided after nightfall, unless thugs interested you. It was a rendezvous for bums and outcasts, an ugly eyesore of the city. But now it has been changed into a great, green cool three-lined retreat, with striking water fountains, and always, it seems, ten million pigeons.

A self-styled reformer was watching a trench being dug by modern machine methods. He said to the superintendent "This machine has taken jobs from scores of men. Why don't you junk that machine and put 100 men in that ditch with shovels?"

The superintendent promptly replied: "Or better still, why not put a thousand men in there with teaspoons?" — Toronto Globe and Mail.

Persistence.

You ask me how you can succeed.
One word I give you, one.
And if you let it guide you on
And on from sun to sun,

You will succeed and naught can keep
You from deserved success;
Hold fast this word against your grief,
Your sorrow and distress.

For it will bring you to your goal.
You cannot fail if you
Persistence keep; that mood can make
Each dream, each hope come true.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Several highly placed businessmen close to the New Deal are sending out quiet word to industry not to over-expand as a result of the war boom.

The situation, as they see it, is that most business leaders are counting on selling to Europe, therefore are taking on men, turning out products and building up inventories. But more cautious economists, in a position to know, believe that purchases from abroad may not be able to come fast enough to take care of this stimulated production

Foreign countries may have, as reported, seven or eight billions to spend, but they can't possibly spend more than a billion a year because of the simple fact that it takes time to spend money.

In January, 1938, industry was entering on the skids. Production had been too great and inventories were high. But they were not much higher than today.

This is one reason why a cautious note is being sounded in Washington. The last thing the administration—or anyone else, for that matter—wants is a boom which will collapse in midair.

* * *

British Black Cat.

LORD Lothian's black cat act is taking on the proportions of a legend. When the British ambassador allowed himself to be photographed outside the White House with a black cat crawling across his shoulders, he set a new high for British amiability. Newsmen rubbed the cat "Crisis," and sent the story across the nation.

Latest sequel is that Lothian has received from a New York firm a shipment of six tins of cat food. The ambassador directed a secretary to find out who owned the cat—it proved to be a little girl—and he sent the cat food along to her.

* * *

Nazi Lobby.

THE NAZI lobby lost no time in swinging into heavy-footed action to keep congress from lifting the arms embargo.

Almost the first letters which returning members found on their desks were from the German-American National Alliance, a pressure group with headquarters in Chicago. The letters bluntly threatened political extinction to any congressmen voting with the president. Not content with coercive language, Paul A. F. Warnholtz, chairman of the Alliance's public affairs committee, underscored the following:

"We are aiming to pledge all of our members and members of groups which are or may become affiliated with us, to assist in preventing by lawful means any person from ever again holding a public office, who votes for the enactment of legislation or termination of existing laws, as a result whereof the sale of arms, munitions and implements of war would be permitted in the matter of the present European conflict."

A number of congressmen turned their letters over to the Dies committee, which has had the Alliance under scrutiny for some months. This is not the first time the Alliance has bombarded congress with a Nazi barrage.

Last March it flooded Capitol Hill with denunciations of economic boycotts against Germany, flaying Jews, Roosevelt and Ambassador Bullitt and demanding that congressmen vote for the Ludlow Bill requiring a referendum before war can be declared.

Dog Rescuer.

ALONG black limousine was headed east along a Washington boulevard. Suddenly the only passenger, a lady, called to the chauffeur to stop. As the car pulled up to the club, a lean-bellied dog slunk off behind a tree.

"I want that dog," the lady said to her chauffeur. "Go get him."

The chauffeur was not surprised. He knew the habits of his mistress, who long has been called a one-person animal rescue league.

It was Mathilde Welles, wife of the under secretary of state, Sumner Welles.

Neither she nor the chauffeur ever had seen the dog before. But Mrs. Welles has a keen eye and a soft heart, and if there is a stray dog anywhere, she will see it.

The dog, a fox terrier, was picked up and put into the luxurious automobile. Driven to the Welles estate in Maryland, it was washed, combed, fed, and fattened, now has taken its place with the proud aristocrats of the Welles animal household.

* * *

U. S. War Debt.

ALTHOUGH European countries get all the publicity on not paying their war debts, the United States government also owes one: in fact, has owed it for over 119 years. The creditor, in this case, is Vermont.

During the war of 1812, Vermont equipped a body of militia at a cost of $35,057 and placed it at the disposal of the federal government. This money has never been repaid. Subsequently, in 1817 and 1818, Vermont made two loans to Washington, which, with interest to March 1820, totaled $11,743. That year the government made a "token" payment of $4,421, leaving unpaid 57,322.

Vermont claims that the last two loans, with interest, have run up to $57,811, or 500 per cent more than the original sums, and seeks a combined total of $92,868.

The government has already made reimbursements amounting to $5,649,467 to eight states and one city for expenditures in the war of 1812, also has paid out $3,210,675 to states for suppressing Indian uprisings and over $10,000,000 for expenses incurred during the Civil war.

All this was in the good old days before cities and states got into the habit of borrowing from the government.

Corn Roast In a Cabin

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY WIFE AND I had roasted corn with Jack and Polly at their new cabin in the woods. The cabin is not finished yet—in fact part of the fun was in the incompleteness and futurity of everything. To these young folks, married a little more than a year now, their building venture means a phase of romance, as well as a financial investment that is solid. They started from scratch—but their home will not wear a mortgage.

Most of the work Jack has done, and will do, himself . . . but Polly has been at his side to help to plan and even, on occasion, to mix mortar. It was hard, slow work at first—digging into the clay of the hillside, picking out stones, grubbing out strong old roots of trees. For a long time nothing showed but a hole in the ground. Then gradually the cellar wall took shape, a fire place made its appearance on the floor line of the two-room cottage.

Now one room of the two is floored and roofed, and stands high and dry upon its solid walls. The space beneath it will serve as a garage and under a wide rear porch there is ample storage room.

To be sure the poplar logs which were cut from the surrounding woods to form the walls, are still undaubed, and the two ends are open to the weather. But in his spare time—he works four days a week in a local manufacturing plant—Jack is as busy as a wasp with a huge tub of clay, and Polly helps to fill the too wide spaces with chinking.

It is a cool and airy place in which to work. Tall trees tower all about it and wandering wild grapes shield it with their leafy tangle. To live there will be like living in a bower. We climbed in by a sturdy ladder which leaned against the floor, and sat upon seats improvised from bits of unused lumber, about a card table converted for the occasion into an eating place. When dusk crept in and the stars came out an old oil wall lamp was lighted upon the logs above our heads.

The crickets and katydids began their shrill, ardent chorus. The fire snapped and crackled, and the odor of brewing coffee added its homey charm. A pair of hoot owls made fitful remarks from the gathering darkness of the woods. My but the corn tasted good!

Such a rustic occasion as this, was, of course, "right up our alley." But it does seem that this young couple with their independence and working together to put a roof over their heads, "have something there" that forecasts for them a happy future.

LISTS ISSUES IN CONGRESS ON NEUTRALITY

Question and Answer Series Outlines Legislation Under Study at Capital.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Here in question and answer form is an outline of the proposals involved in congressional neutrality discussion:

Q. What did President Roosevelt propose?

A.: He asked Congress to repeal the arms embargo feature of the present neutrality law and substitute a cash-and-carry system of dealing with nations at war.

Q.: What is the present arms embargo?

A.: This is a section of the Neutrality Act passed by Congress in 1937 which provides that in event of war the United States bans any sale of arms, ammunition of war implements to those engaging in conflict.

Q.: Does Mr. Roosevelt desire the elimination of the whole neutrality Act?

A.: No. He is asking specifically for elumination of the embargo section.

Q.: What does he propose in its place?

A.: He wishes to permit sale on a cash basis of any product whatsoever to any warring nation which will come and get the material in its own ships.

Q.: Can warring nations now make any purchase in the United States.

A.: Yes. There is no present restriction on sales of any sort of goods except weapons, bullets, munitions, airplanes and other specific materials of war.

Q.: Can warring nations buy raw materials in the United

A : Yes. They may buy oil, cotton, steel, machinery, etc., and even machinery for making shells or rifles.

Q.: Do they now have to pay cash for their apparatus here or take them away in their own ships?

A.: No. Purchases are permitted on an ordinary credit basis and the goods may be transported on U. S. ships. The Neutrality Law formerly contained a "cash-and carry" clause but this feature of the law expired last May 1.

Q.: Did Mr. Roosevelt make any requests in addition to the embargo repeal and cash-and-carry plan?

A.: Yes. The President asked for authority to designate danger zones into which American ships would not be allowed to sail or in lieu of that suggested a proclamation that all voyages into war zones were at the vessel's own risk.

Q.: Did he make any other suggestions?

A.: Yes. He asked that Congress prevent American citizens from traveling on ships of warring nations or into war zones or suggested that he do this himself by proclamation.

TRIO FINED $130

Two Women and Man Arrested by Police in Raid Plead Guilty.

Fines totalling $130 were assessed against two women and a man in municipal court Saturday when they pleaded guilty to separate charges. The trio was arrested by police in a raid Friday night.

A woman who gave the name of Blanche Geary, 9½ East Fifth street, was fined $100 for keeping a disorderly house, and another who gave the name of Mary Smith, same address, was fined $25 for disorderly conduct. Jerry W. Emminger, who told police he lived at 137 West Second street, was fined $5 and costs on a similar charge.

FRENCH BEGIN SIEGFRIED LINE BOMBARDMENT

solidate positions and thwart Nazi preparations for new attacks.

French dispatches said the action extended from the Warndt forest on the west to the Bienwald forest in the east, and that fighting occurred near the German cities of Saarbruecken, Zweibruecken, Pirmasesns and Bergzaberg.

Reconnaisance flights were carried out "with success," the French reported.

(A communique issued in Berlin by the German high command said eight French planes had been shot down.)

A morning communique (7:05 a. m., 1:05 a. m. EST) reported "local improvement" in French positions.

The French attacking units, informed quarters said, were seeking to learn the secret behind the recent numerous German assaults on advance positions.

There was some speculation whether the Nazis were putting on a show for the benefit of Fuehrer Hitler, who French sources reported on the front, or whether the Germans were masking hurried troops displacements and new fortifications ahead of the French forces.

The French said they had "annihilated" several German units which yesterday attempted to dislodge troops from dominating hilltop nests in the Saar, Blies and Lauter river regions.

Dispatches reported the Germans were massing warplanes at strategic frontier points as far south as the Swiss border, indicating great aerial operations were likely soon to overshadow the "fortress warfare" on land.

In this connection observers showed interest in comments made in Paris by Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., United States ambassador to Poland, who estimated Germany had used 5,000 planes in a five-day assault on Polish production and communication lines.

Biddle, who arrived here yesterday after a hazardous trek from Poland, during which he said he frequently was under fire, declared Nazi planes shuttled constantly from north to south and from southeast to northeast over Poland, "making the whole interior a front." He estimated the Germans had lost 300 planes in the Polish campaign.

Britain Says 'No' To Duce's Peace Bid

LONDON —(AP)— Great Britain answered Premier Mussolini's suggestion to call the war quits on Germany's military conquest of Poland by intensifying today her preparations for a fight to the finish.

An authoritative commentary on Mussolini's speech in Rome Saturday declared Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement of Britain's war aim—"to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression"—still held good.

Britain remained determined, it said, despite the complication of Soviet Russia's occupation of eastern Poland.

Informed sources, however, said Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, who called Russian Ambassodar Ivan Maisky to his office for an hour's interview Saturday night, had requested clarification of Soviet aims in eastern Europe.

Meanwhile, these war developments were disclosed:

1. British expeditionary troops are moving toward battle positions alongside French Polius who already have carried operations onto German soil.

2. Gilbert S. Szlumper, general manager of the Southern railway, who was senior transport officer of the British army in the World war, has been assigned to direct all military transport by land and sea.

3. The British fleet and air forces are widening their warfare at sea, trying to cut off the escape of raiding German submarines to hideouts.

4. Plans have been made to speed up production in British shipyards to replace tonnage destroped by submarines, which already have sunk approximately 40 merchant vessels

The latest British ship lost was the 4,646-ton freighter Hazelside. Her survivors, put ashore in Ireland, said the ship was attacked and sunk off the Irish coast yesterday by a submarine after an unsuccessful effort to escape.

Twelve of her crew of 34 were reported missing.

A ministry of information communique, describing relentless war on submarine raiding, said the German underseas fleet must be feeling the full effect of British navy operations.

It contended the submarine crews, with supplies running low and nerves shaken by the necessity of running a gauntlet of depth charges to get back to port, eventually would crack under scientific hunting methods.

Arrange Hobby Show For Fall Value Week

CLAIM SEA AND AIR VICTORIES

Nazis Say British Destroyer Sunk, 8 French Planes Shot Down on West Front.

stepping stone to a possible peace with France or Britain.

These quarters said the high command, which announced the Polish campaign officially "ended," was concentrating its entire attention on the western front.

The same sources regarded as significant reliable information that construction of a bombproof army headquarters had been started "somewhere in the west."

The new headquarters, designed to be invulnerable to enemy shellfire or bombs, will be used to direct operations along the entire western front, it was said.

Until now, Nazis had expressed hope that once the conquest of Poland was accomplished France and Britain might listen to peace proposals, but the high command appeared satisfied a prolonged war was inevitable.

There were indications nevertheless, that the Germans planned to limit hostilities ... [illegible] ... France as much as possible in the hope of weaning the French army away from Britain.

Preparations in the west, informed quarters said, apparently were directed chiefly against the British as it became known here that English troops were being landed in France in increasing numbers.

If German tactics on the eastern front are followed, it may be expected that the German air force will strike in the near future at British concentration areas.

Communiques yesterday gave little attention to activity on the German-French front, saying merely that "in the west there was heavier artillery fire at certain points." They added, "Local enemy attacks were repulsed."

While Warsaw continued to hold out, an official announcement said Nazi troops were moving "along the entire eastern front" toward the demarcation line splitting Poland between Germany and Soviet Russia.

FRENCH SHIP SUNK

LONDON—(INS)—Sinking of the French collier Phryne by a German U-boat off the English Channel was disclosed today. Two British destroyers raced to the scene and rescued 24 members of the crew, two of whom had been injured.

VALUE WEEK TO OPEN TONIGHT

Hobby Show One of Features of Fall Merchandising Event in City.

In the spring of the year a young man's fancy may turn to thoughts of love, but the last days of September turn everyone's thoughts to new clothes, new furnishing to brighten the house during winter months, and new appliances for home and office. All of which spells Fall Value week, which opens at 7 p. m. today.

This semi-annual merchandising event is being held this fall in connection with the Hobby show, which in itself will draw thousands of Mansfield people to the downtown district.

The Hobby show, sponsored by the Buckeye Hobby club and the Retail Merchants association, celebrates the first anniversary of the organization of the club. Fifty-eight hobby collectors have displays in the 50 stores which are taking part in Fall Value week.

During the week, merchants will display new fall and winter merchandise in wearing apparel for men, women and children, footwear, accessories, jewelry, furniture, home furnishings and appliances.

Ribbons will be awarded winners in the Hobby show and judges will be members of the Marion Hobby club.

SOUND OF NAVAL BATTLE HEARD

Heavy Firing Near Norwegian Coast Shakes Houses; Trawlers Fleeing.

new phase of the war—undeclared and unrestricted submarine warfare like that inaugurated by Germany in February, 1917.

Previously German submarines had confined their attacks to allied ships. But the week-end sinking of one Swedish and two Finnish ships off the Norway-Sweden coast was believed to signalize an alteration of German policy, perhaps the adoption of the campaign engaged in under Grand-Admiral Von Tirpitz in the World war which was designed to cut off neutral trade with Britain.

Another possibility seemed to be that German leaders hoped that a few neutral sinkings would frighten the bulk of neutral tonnage off the seas and thus affect British supplies.

The warfare on the seas so far has resulted in sinking of almost 50 vessels, including 31 British ships and 12 neutral vessels. Torpedoes, mines and shell fire accounted for the sinkings. Germany has lost only four vessels but her overseas fleet was forced to tie up at home (except in the Baltic) or in neutral ports.

The neutral sinkings were executed despite German assurance of respect for neutral trade.

The Swedish ship was said to be carrying only timber and the Finnish ships, cellulose, which the Finns say was never included in the German contraband list.

GIVES SELF UP

Reformatory Fugitive Who Fled In July, Surrenders.

Because he surrendered to Supt. Arthur L. Glattke at the Ohio State reformatory today, Roy Furlong, 21, who escaped two months ago, will serve only six months additional time instead of the usual two-year penalty for escapes.

Glattke said Furlong walked into his office today to complete a 10 to 25 year robbery term. He escaped on July 25 after serving little more than two years. He was sentenced from Akron, May 13, 1937.

ASSURES GROUP

Ashbrook Writes He's as Much for Peace as They Are.

In response to petitions sent him last week by a group of Mansfielders opposing changes in the neutrality act, Congressman William A. Ashbrook gave assurance today that they would be "satisfied" with his record when the question comes to a vote.

In a letter to Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., who forwarded the petitions last Friday, Ashbrook said:

"I share your views and assure you that you are no more in favor of peace and keeping the U. S. out of the European war than I am. I am quite certain that you will be satisfied with the record I make on this very vital question."

Similar petitions bearing the signatures of city and county officials and businessmen also were sent to U. S. Senators Robert A. Taft and A. Vic Donahey.

TELL OF ATTACK

Bucyrus Girl Hitch-Hikers, 3 Truck Drivers Held.

Authorities at Cincinnati held three truck drivers today after two 13-year-old Bucyrus girl hitchhikers reported the men had attacked them in Covington, Ky.

One of the girls leaped from a truck at a toll house on a bridge over the Ohio river between Covington and Cincinnati and summoned help. The truck sped away, but police found the men and the other girl in it a short time later.

The girl who jumped from the truck said the men forced her to lie on the floor of the cab while they crossed the bridge, but she managed to break loose and flee.

The girls told authorities they left their homes in Bucyrus several days ago after an argument with relatives. The case was turned over to juvenile authorities in Cincinnati.

CITY GETS TAX ADVANCE

The city of Mansfield today received an advance of $50,000 against the real estate tax settlement for the last half of the year, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said. The advance which represents approximately 98 per cent of the tax money due the city for the final half of the year, was requested by Kelley to supplant the general fund which was overdrawn more than $7,000.

CAMELS—LONG-BURNING COSTLIER TOBACCOS

DON'T GET A LOAN UNTIL YOU READ HOW YOU CAN BORROW AT LOW COST

IF you want to get a loan at the lowest cost, there are three things that you should do.

1. Insist on being told what rate of interest you are asked to pay for your loan.
2. Compare rates and terms. Then get your loan where you pay the lowest interest charge.
3. Take only as long to repay your loan as you really need.

Many loan companies charge the maximum rate permitted by the Ohio small loan law (3% per month on loans up to $300 and 8% per annum on balances above $300.) There are other companies which charge less than this lawful maximum. At Household Finance you pay only 2% per month on loans of $20 to $300 and 6% per annum on balances above $300. These charges—the lowest we have ever offered—are actually ⅓ below the lawful maximum.

There are three reasons why we can make loans at these low rates: (1) We do a large volume of business which reduces our expenses. (2) Our 60 years of experience makes possible more efficient operation and lower costs. (3) We have access to large amounts of money to lend to our customers.

One rate to everyone at Household

Every customer gets the benefit of our low rates. We have only one rate schedule, available to everyone. The table below shows just a few examples of how you save at Household.

Choose your own monthly payment

At Household you repay your loan on the installment schedule that suits your own needs. Find the amount of cash you want to borrow in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment you wish to make. Note that you can make very small monthly payments or you can pay larger installments and pay up sooner. The sooner you repay your loan, the less it costs.

No matter where you get your loan, the longer you take to repay, the greater the charges. For that reason we urge everyone to repay in a reasonable time. Before you get a loan, be sure that you know how many payments you are asked to make. Figure the total amount you must pay in order to repay your loan in full including all charges.

Simple to borrow at Household

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is tell us about your needs. No stocks or bonds required. No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. You get the money you need privately and promptly. There's no annoying delay—your application is passed upon by the manager of the office you deal with. Every consideration is shown in case sickness or unemployment make it difficult for you to pay your installments when due.

In the interest of your own pocketbook, get all the facts about loan costs before you borrow. Compare Household's terms with charges elsewhere. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

Legion Convenes, Counsels Nation to Stay Neutral

PEACE PLEAS MADE BEFORE WAR VETERANS

Sound Uncomprising Neutrality, Preparedness Theme in Opening Address.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Government, state and civil leaders joined with high officers of the American Legion today in counselling the nation to buttress its peace with an impregnable defense.

Uncompromising neutrality and preparedness formed the theme of addresses delivered to thousands of veterans and women's auxiliary members gathered in the Coliseum for the first session of the Legion's 21st National convention.

The views of Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, scheduled as one of three speakers interpreting the Legion's three-fold service to community, state and nation, were presented by his representative, Brig. Gen. Frank M. Andrews.

"There are those in this and other nations who proclaim that neutrality is not possible," Woodring said in his prepared address. "There are those who persist that in these times a democratic form of government neutral or unneutral—must fail and in the end give way to some new ideology in government. With these I do not agree."

The same cry, he said, had been raised at trying moments in the nation's history since George Washington's day, but such fears always had proved unwarranted.

The Legion, he said, was reaffirming its solemn resolve of 21 years ago—"it shall not happen again."

National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick expressed belief in his prepared report that "our country can be kept from involvement in other people's strife," and said "we propose, out of our experience, to counsel and advise the citizenry of America to the end that America may keep the peace and by example afford to other nations the hope that through democracy and democratic institutions the world may some day reach the goal of peace."

He recommended the Legion withdraw from fidac, international organization of veterans of the allied forces in the World war, in the interest of neutrality.

69 TAKE EXAMS

Final Citizens Tests to Be Held at Courthouse Tomorrow.

Sixty-nine foreign-born residents of Mansfield, Shelby and Plymouth are scheduled to take their final examination for citizenship Tuesday at the courthouse.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston will conduct the examination and question two witnesses for each of the applicants. He will be assisted by L. E. Fox, a naturalization officer from Youngstown, and clerk of courts in charge of applications.

Judge Huston will question the applicants concerning their knowledge of county, state and national government and their conduct since they came to the United States.

Successful applicants for naturalization will receive their citizenship papers at a reception to be sonsored later by a Mansfield patriotic organization.

STORE AND GAS STATION LOOTED

Thieves Hurl Brick Through Window of Delicatessen, Take Radio.

Police today were investigating two week-end burglaries which included a gasoline filling station and a delicatessen store.

At Hamilton's Delicatessen, 270 South Diamond street, police said a brick was tossed through a window early today and a $20 radio taken.

At the Mathews Oil company filling station, 302 North Mulberry street, officers said, boys apparently entered the place Saturday night by breaking a window. Police recovered candy and gum valued at $1.85 hidden in the weeds near the station.

FIREMAN DIES

Collapses While Fighting Fire at Toledo; Transient Burned.

TOLEDO—(INS)—Fire at a warehouse which police said tramps used as a hangout sent one of its occupants to Women's and Children's hospital with serious burns today and caused the death from a heart attack of Fireman Clem Willacker, 46.

Hospital attendants said the tramp, unidentified, was not expected to recover. Willacker collapsed while assisting in fighting the fire and died a few minutes later.

SIGHTSEERS BANNED

WASHINGTON—(AP)—For the first Sunday since the years immediately after the World war, the capitol was closed to sightseers yesterday. The order was described as precautionary by officials.

Distribute Food—Surplus commodities will be distributed Tuesday to city and county relief clients from relief headquarters at 28 Orange street, Relief Director J. V. Finney said today.

2 BOYS HURT

George Shipper, 17, also of Ashland, was discharged late Saturday night after being given treatment for a bad leg bruise.

The two boys were injured Saturday afternoon when Beem's motorcycle, going south on Cottage street here sideswiped a car driven by Donald Wells, 23 of Ashland, who was about to make a left turn.

SENT TO O. S. R.

Youth Accused by Girl Given 1 to 20 Year Sentence.

James W. Jones, 20, 152 Miller street, one of the two colored men who allegedly figured in an attack on a white girl last July 28 on a lonely road north of the city, was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Mansfield reformatory today by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

Although Jones denied the attack, he admitted being with the girl and becoming intoxicated in violation of his probation imposed in January, 1938, by Judge Huston. The probation, granted after Jones pleaded guilty of a charge of shooting with intent to kill, was revoked by Judge Huston.

Jones is married and the father of a one-year-old daughter.

Clarence Brackins, 28, Mansfield, who was with Jones at the time of the alleged attack, is still held under an indictment for attempted assault.

STARK ADMITS 10-CENT FEE ON COAL PURCHASE

Ohio Purchasing Agent Says Bricker Halted Practice on Hospital Fuel.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A charge that an agent had collected a 10-cent-a-ton inspection commission for coal sold the state hospitals at Athens was admitted today by an administration spokesman, with an added assertion that the practice was stopped at the request of Gov. John W. Bricker.

"It was a perfectly fair fee to assure the state of getting good coal," declared C. J. Stark, state superintendent of purchases, after an examiners' report said miners selling coal to the hospital signed a "petition agreement" whereby they paid the 10-cent fee on Athens hospital sales to "one party."

In releasing the report, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said Stark "authorized, permitted and participated in practices derogatory to the public interest" and that coal purchases "have been let without competitive bidding in violation of law."

Stark, claiming "full responsibility" for the practice which the report asserted began last March, said Gov. Bricker "didn't like it because of the disrepute commissions had come into during the last administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey."

So, Stark added, he put the inspector, George E. Johnson of Nelsonville, on a straight salary. The examiners' report said that Johnson collected fees amounting to $174.78 to April 1, and on May 10 was placed on a salary of $125 monthly.

Gov. Bricker said the arrangement was set up at the request of coal operators "so that the purchases could be distributed among the mines to keep miners at work."

Advised of the examiners' charges, Stark declared:

"It is ridiculous that Ferguson, who passed over so many bad things in the last administration, should assume such a holy attitude now on a thing like this. Of course, he is grasping at straws."

Ferguson is the only Democrat holding an important state office, being elected to a four-year term three years ago.

Stark, explaining why he placed an inspector and charged a fee, said the Athens hospital and coal district "presents a situation which is unique."

"Hundreds of small truck lines are located within the proper shipping area and represent logical sources of supply," he said. "The qualities of coal produced by these many mines and its preparation vary considerably. Without local and experienced assistance thoroughly familiar with these mines and their methods of operation, it is impossible as a matter of common sense, and good business judgment, to insure the hospital getting the best quality of coal from the district and to protect the state's best interests through full values received."

WATCH STALIN

British Try to Sound Out Soviet On What She Intends to Do.

HITLER STILL JITTERY, TOO

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

The befuddled European war continues to sit on the curb-stone with its feet in the dust, waiting for Communist Chieftain Stalin to come along and disclose what Russia is going to do about it.

That is a matter of mighty moment both to the allies and to Hitler.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax is reported to have tried again to get at the bottom of the mystery Saturday night. He is said to have sent for Soviet Ambassador Maisky and requested that the envoy clarify his country's aims in eastern Europe.

What Maisky replied hasn't been made public, but it he said anything worth while it's a safe bet Fuehrer Hitler would give Moscow another slice of his new Polish territory to hear it.

Herr Hitler must be wondering how good a prophet he really is. When he gave followers Mein Kampf he warned them to keep away from entanglements with Russia.

Now that he has signed a non-aggression pact with Russia, and there is speculation as to whether Stalin or Hitler is giving the orders. Certainly Russia's intervention has changed the complexion of the eastern European set-up, which had been highly favorable to Herr Hitler.

First off, Russia has taken three-fifths of Poland, a considerable portion of which had been battled for by the German army.

Hitler has had to abandon his scheme of taking over the rich Russian Ukraine, toward which he has been looking longingly since before he came to power.

Diplomatic quarters in Moscow express the opinion that Russia's occupation of eastern Poland has prevented any direct German march into Rumania through Poland. The only way Germany now could get to Rumania — should it wish to — is through Hungary.

Hungary, which has been as close to Germany as two crossed fingers, has rushed to renew diplomatic relations with the Soviet.

The Turkish foreign minister is on his way to Moscow to discuss some sort of agreement.

Bulgaria is reported to be about to make a trade pact with Russia and Yugoslavia, which hasn't had diplomatic relations with Moscow, is said to be opening them up.

Hitler's problem now, in the view of many observers, is to figure out whether if he wins the war from the allies he may not lose it to Russia.

Soviet Leader Puzzles Again

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(INS Foreign Editor)

Josef Stalin made another puzzling move that set the world to guessing today.

He closed the Neva river to all foreign shipping and thereby cut off Finland's Lake Lagoda from the Baltic.

Completely puzzled by this Russian step and fearful of their own independence, the Finns immediately began fortifying their narrow frontier of the Neva.

It was inevitable that the measure should arouse Finnish concern, mysterious though it may have been. Stalin usually has a pretty good Bolshevistic reason for everything he does and it was difficult to read into closing of the Neva any desire on his part to protect the sovereignty and independence of the Baltic states.

Yet at the same time the foreign minister of Estonia was wined and dined in Moscow and apparently was given assurances that his country was completely safe from aggression and invasion.

Had Stalin then designs against Finland alone, or does this strange new chapter in Europe's war indicate once again that the Russians are not too pleased over the prospect of further Nazi expansion eastward in Europe?

Without too great a stretch of the imagination, the Neva river mystery could be interpreted as a warning to Germany. If by any chance Adolf Hitler contemplated at some time in the future, a move against Germany's Courland province, which is now Latvia, and possibly further east into the Gulf of Finland and against Finland itself, he now knows that Russia is apparently determined to control those waterways and all that goes with them.

The closing of the Neva river may in the long run prove to be nothing more than part of Stalin's campaign to preserve neutrality in the Balkans and the Baltic, in the hope that when the rest of Europe has been lain prostrate by war, Communism can step in and create a Russian hegemony outdistancing anything ever known in the history of the world.

War and the economic dilapidation that follows in its wake affords just the fertility that Communism needs to flourish.

Nazis Intensify Warfare At Sea

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(U.P. Foreign News Writer)

Adolf Hitler shifted Germany's fighting strength to the war in the west today, with the first big Nazi counter-offensive directed against Great Britain's sea power.

While German artillery pounded a still defiant Warsaw to pieces as the last big operation in Poland, Nazi U-boats opened a new phase of war on the seas by sinking neutral ships carrying supplies to England. One British destroyer, one Swedish ship and two Finnish merchant men were sunk, the high command announced at Berlin.

Reminiscent of the unrestricted submarine warfare during the World war, the German U-boats were believed to be attempting to carry out on a large scale the promise of Hitler to retaliate in kind against the British blockade.

The next step, it was believed in Berlin, would be mass Nazi aerial attacks on British ports and industrial centers.

In the Baltic states, the Soviet navy closed the river Neva to Finland's shipping.

So far, the position of the Russian government in eastern Europe has consistently aided the Nazi operations, although the ultimate purposes of Moscow remain obscure.

The Red army was pushing up to the eastern suburbs of Warsaw, where the Nazis have vainly besieged the Polish capital for three weeks. Today, the city was reported in flames in many districts, big Nazi guns were pounding at its ancient buildings, a thousand persons were reported killed in 24 hours and the defending troops were said to be fighting on as furiously as ever.

In Moscow, too, there were developments that affected not only eastern Europe but may have a vast direct influence on the war in the west.

The Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, journeying from Ankara, was on a diplomatic mission that held the attention of the big powers. Turkey has worked in close cooperation with the Soviets. Turkey holds a key position in the southeast as guardian of the Dardanelles straits and as an ally of Britain and France in the eastern Mediterranean.

A non-aggression pact between the Soviets and Turkey was a matter of diplomatic speculation, and it was believed that Turkey might participate in a movement to assure a firm neutral block across the Balkans. But of greater importance was the possible effect of such a move on the Turkish ties with the Allies.

If, as has been customary in signing non-aggression pacts recently, Saracoglu's visit to Moscow should result in important political realignment it could hardly be anything except adverse to the interests of Britain and France.
